Resolve Incorporating

The Connecticut Historical Society.

Passed May, 1825; Renewed May, 1839;
Amended February, 1905, May, 1925, March, 1929, March, 1931.

Resolved by this Assembly, That John Trumbull, Thomas C. Brownell, Timothy Pitkin, John S. Peters, William W. Ellsworth, Thomas Day, Thomas Robins, Daniel Burhans, Thomas Hubbard, Isaac Toucey, Nathaniel S. Wheaton, George Sumner, Roger M. Sherman, William T. Williams, Martin Wells, Joseph Battell, William Cooley, Thomas H. Gallaudet, Thomas S. Williams, Eli Todd, Walter Mitchell, George W. Doane, Samuel B. Woodward, S. H. Huntington, Samuel W. Dana, James Gould, Samuel A. Foote, Nathan Johnson, Hawley Olmsted, Benjamin Trumbull, John Hall, and their associates and successors, be, and hereby are ordained, constituted and declared to be forever hereafter, a body corporate, by the name of The Connecticut Historical Society, and by that name, they, their associates and successors shall and may have perpetual succession; shall be capable of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, and also to purchase, receive, hold and convey any estate, real or personal, to an amount not exceeding four million dollars; and may have a common seal, and the same may alter at pleasure, may establish rules relative to the admission of future members; may ordain, establish, and put in execution such by-laws and regulations, not contrary to the provisions of this charter, or the laws of this State, as shall be deemed necessary for the government of said Corporation.

The Governor of this State, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Judges of the Superior Court, shall be ex officio members of the Society.

Said Corporation shall meet once a year for the choice of a President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and such other officers as may be designated from time to time by the by-laws of the Society.

The first meeting of the Society shall be holden at the State House in Hartford at such time as shall be designated by the Honorable John Trumbull, notice thereof being previously given in one or more newspapers printed in Hartford.

Provided, nevertheless, that this act of incorporation shall be subject to be revoked or altered, at the pleasure of the General Assembly.

By-Laws.

ARTICLE I. MEMBERS.

SECTION 1. The Society shall consist of active, corresponding, and honorary members. Only active members shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Corresponding and honorary members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or dues.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

SECTION 2. Every application for active membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicant, shall be supported by the written recommendation of at least one active member residing in the State of Connecticut, and shall be accompanied by the admission fee of three dollars. Such applications must be made upon blank forms furnished by the Society and shall contain a brief personal sketch of the applicant.

Every nomination for the election of corresponding or honorary members shall be based upon the application, in writing, of at least two active members, residing in the State of Connecticut, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

SECTION 3. No person shall be voted for as an active, corresponding, or honorary member until at least the meeting next succeeding the one at which his election is recommended by the Committee on Membership.

Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the Committee on Membership shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds of the members present.

SECTION 4. Active members shall pay as annual dues to the Society three dollars if they reside within the City of Hartford, and two dollars if they reside without said city. Any active member, not indebted to the Society for dues, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of fifty dollars.

The annual dues of members shall be payable in advance on the first day of May in each year. The payment of the annual dues shall constitute a condition for membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after they become due shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

ARTICLE II. OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be, a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, an Auditor, a Committee on Membership to consist of seven members, Committees on the Library, on Publication, on Finance, and on Monthly Papers, each to consist of three members. The Committee on Finance may with the Treasurer select any Trust Company that it may see fit, to assist the Treasurer in the work of his office. Only active members resident in the State of Connecticut shall be eligible to office.

The preceding officers and the chairmen of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

The presiding officer shall name the members of all special committees ordered raised at any meeting.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed by the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

SECTION 2. The President shall be chairman of the Standing Committee, and a member of the Committees on Membership, the Library, and Publication; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and of the Standing Committee; and shall deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

The Recording Secretary shall call all meetings of the Society; shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; and shall keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and of the Standing Committee.

The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence in behalf of the Society.

The Treasurer shall receive the admission fees, and report the names of the persons paying the same to the Recording Secretary; shall receive all other moneys due, and all donations or bequests of money made to the Society; shall pay to the order of the chairman of the Standing Committee such sums as may be required for the ordinary expenses of the Society and such as the Society or Standing Committee may otherwise direct to be paid; shall keep a true and faithful account of all moneys received and paid by him, and of the property and debts of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting, render an audited statement thereof.

The Librarian, under the direction of the Committee on the Library, shall arrange and have charge of all books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other articles belonging to or deposited in the rooms of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting of the Society, make a full report of his doings as Librarian during the past year, and of the condition of the Library.

The Auditor shall, prior to the annual meeting, examine the books, accounts and financial statements of the Treasurer, and compare the same with the vouchers and securities in the Treasurer's hands and certify the result of such examination to the Society.

SECTION 3. The Committee on Membership shall consider all applications for membership, and shall report to the Society such applications as said Committee may approve and recommend for admission. No applications for membership shall be considered or acted upon by said Committee during a meeting of the Society.

The Committee on the Library shall have the general oversight and management of the Library, manuscripts and other collections belonging to or deposited with the Society. Said Committee shall make purchases for the library to such an amount as may be appropriated from time to time for the purpose.

The Committee on Publication shall have the superintendence of all publications ordered by the Society. They shall, from time to time, report to the Society respecting the selection and arrangement of such papers, from the library of the Society or other sources, as are most suitable for publication in volumes of the Society's Collections.

The Committee on Monthly Papers shall provide for a paper to be read at each regular meeting of the Society.

The Standing Committee shall act generally in behalf of the Society, and shall fill all vacancies in any offices until the next regular meeting of the Society. Any five members of this Committee may constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a notice for a meeting of the Society shall be deemed a notice for a meeting of this Committee. Special meetings of this Committee may be called by the Recording Secretary by direction of the President.

ARTICLE III. MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. An annual meeting shall be held in the month of May, at such time as the Standing Committee shall appoint.

A regular meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month from October to May inclusive, unless otherwise ordered.

SECTION 2. Special meetings shall be called by direction of the President, or, in his absence, on the application of three active members to the Recording Secretary.

Notice of each meeting of the Society shall be sent by mail to each active member at least two days prior thereto. And at any meeting, duly called and notified, ten members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

ARTICLE IV. DONATIONS AND DEPOSITS.

All donations to and deposits with the Society shall be entered in books kept for that purpose.

No donations shall be exchanged or disposed of unless the Society have a duplicate of the same.

All deposits left with the Society shall be carefully preserved, and may at any time be taken away by the depositor in person, or delivered on his written order. But every deposit which has not been so reclaimed or withdrawn shall, after the decease of the depositor, be entered as a donation, and be deemed the property of the Society; unless, at the time of making the deposit, other conditions shall have been prescribed by the depositor.

ARTICLE V. LIBRARY.

The rooms, with all books, manuscripts, pictures, and articles belonging to or deposited with the Society, shall be under the immediate charge of the Librarian, acting under the direction of the Committee on the Library.

The library shall be open for the inspection of the public, and the examination of books and manuscripts, and transcription therefrom, at such time, and on such conditions, as shall be prescribed by the Committee on the Library; and no book or manuscript shall be taken from the rooms without a special vote of the Society, except by the Committee on Publication.

ARTICLE VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by its late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund, the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Committee on Publication, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

ARTICLE VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

President's Address.

The admissions to this Society by election during the last year have been one honorary member and thirty-five active members, one of whom became a member for life. Four have been added to our list of ex officio members to take the place of three who were retired, and one who died who was also an active member. Ten active members, one a member for life, have died. Eleven have resigned and a few have been dropped. The present membership consists of five hundred and thirty-six active members, thirty of whom are members for life, three honorary and twenty ex officio members and one corresponding member, making a total membership of five hundred and sixty.

The members deceased during the year are:

John Chapin Brinsmade of Washington, Conn., a well-known educator, several times a member of the Connecticut House of Representatives, a member of the Senate, and delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1902, was admitted to membership in this Society October, 1905, died August 21, 1930.

Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, an attorney, widely known, was admitted in November, 1907, died March 9, 1931.

William Edwards Fulton, a life member, a resident of Waterbury, admitted December, 1920, died July 2, 1930.

Henry K. Lee, a well known business man of Hartford, admitted in November, 1924, died December 15, 1930.

Loren Pinckney Waldo Marvin, Judge of the Superior Court of Connecticut, a member of a distinguished family, admitted February, 1908, died at his home in West Hartford, June 1, 1930.

William A. Sanborn of Hartford, well known in the real estate field, admitted February, 1921, died April 23, 1930.

Dr. Whitefield Nelson Thompson, Superintendent of the Hartford Retreat, admitted January, 1926, died December 11, 1930.

Marcus White of New Britain, a well-known educator, admitted May, 1921, died June 6, 1930.

Timothy Shaler Williams of Huntington, N. Y., who was much interested in historical matters, admitted November, 1924, died June 3, 1930.

Richard Warham Woodward, a prominent resident of New Haven, admitted November, 1888, died May 16, 1931.

The papers read at monthly meetings were as follows:

At the first meeting of the season in October, Professor Charles J. Rohr of Trinity College read a paper entitled "An American Experiment in Communism." After giving a general account of communistic settlements in the United States he gave a particular history of the Icarian settlement in Texas which began about 90 years ago and was dissolved in 1915.

At the November meeting, Walter R. Steiner, M.D., told "The Story of Barbara Fritchie," compiled principally from material gathered many years ago by his father.

At the December meeting Mr. James Weld Cartwright gave an account of "The Undertakers of the First American Ironworks." This paper sketched the history of the company which made iron at Lynn, Mass., at a very early date.

At the January meeting a paper upon "Marcus Whitman" was read by Rev. James B. Tuthill. This paper told of Whitman's gaining knowledge that the English were planning to annex Oregon and of his winter journey from that region to interview the President at Washington, thereby causing the United States to claim that country.

At the February meeting Mr. Albert C. Bates, the Society's librarian, gave a sketch of "The Military Adventurers Company Organized at Hartford, 1763." This paper was an account of the formation of a company composed chiefly of survivors of the French and Indian War and the Havana Expedition, who sought to secure a grant of land on the East bank of the Mississippi River and their long continued but unsuccessful efforts towards that end.

At the March meeting a paper on "Historical Education" which showed much thought in its preparation was read by Mr. William G. Land.

At the April meeting a paper entitled "The Problem of the History of America before Columbus" was read by Mr. Benjamin L. Whorf. The reader located the sections of the country occupied by the various linguistic stocks and endeavored to show the probable order in which the various peoples reached North America. He gave especial attention to the inhabitants of Mexico, particularly the Mayas, telling something of their history, civilization and culture.

At the May meeting Mr. Howard S. F. Randolph of New York told of "The Fun of Finding Forefathers," a subject upon which he was by his experience well qualified to speak and which he made of great interest to his listeners.

In response to an invitation that the Society be represented at The Third Anglo-American Conference of Historians to be held in London Ambassador Charles G. Dawes was named to represent the Society.

In answer to the letter notifying him of this appointment General Dawes wrote:

> "I have your letter of January 15th, informing me of my appointment as the delegate of the Connecticut Historical Society to the Third Anglo-American Conference of Historians which is to be held in London during the week commencing July 13th.
> I appreciate the honor you do me, and shall be very glad to act as your delegate.
> Yours sincerely,
> CHARLES G. DAWES."

General Dawes had previously been elected, on October 7th, 1930, an honorary member of the Connecticut Historical Society in recognition of his well-known interest in American history and his courtesy to the Society shown in permitting the Society to copy for printing the unpublished journal of Rufus Putnam, kept while on a voyage of exploration in 1772-1773 from New York to the Mississippi River for the purpose of locating land for settlements believed to have been granted by the King to survivors of the Havana expedition of 1762 and the French and Indian War.

Miss May Atherton Leach of Philadelphia was named as the Society's delegate to the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science which was held in Philadelphia in April. Following the meeting Miss Leach submitted an interesting account of the proceedings of the Association.

From the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of Connecticut a communication has been received, requesting that in planning for the new building of the Historical Society arrangement be made for a room in which the library and records of the Mayflower Society may be permanently deposited. That Society has already placed with our Society a library of approximately 1,416 volumes, many manuscripts and much other important genealogical material.

The most interesting event to be noted in the current affairs of the Connecticut Historical Society is the purchase of land at the southeast corner of Washington and Buckingham Streets intended as the site for a fireproof building to provide for the safe keeping and orderly arrangement of the Society's treasured possessions.

That the need of such a building is urgent is a statement requiring no detailed explanation here. It is commonly known that thousands of books are boxed and stored in a warehouse, and that cases of collections,—one of which is an important collection of Indian relics,—are stored unopened in the basement of the Wadsworth Athenaeum, where the bound copies of newspapers also are kept—a place so inconvenient to the public that the librarian must perform the athletic feat of carrying these ponderous books up two flights of stairs whenever an investigator wishes to consult any of these old volumes.

It is familiar knowledge that the committees appointed by the Society, and the members of the Society assembled at its regular meetings, have considered with meticulous care the various and complex conditions affecting the Society's tenure of the premises which it now occupies and the possibilities for expansion in this place. If unknown to any person interested, the details are easily accessible in the Society's annual reports. There is no room for doubt on the part of anyone who knows, and there will be none in the minds of any persons who become acquainted with, the proceedings of the Society during the last few years, that the action authorizing the purchase of land and the procuring of plans for a building was taken in response to a pressing necessity.

While securing a site adapted to the present requirements of the Society, it has been the purpose of the Committee to buy, while there was opportunity, land enough for such enlargements as may be required by the increase of the Society's collections and the extension of its service to the community during the course of a reasonable term of the years to come.

The parcels of ground which have, from time to time, been purchased in pursuance of this plan now compose a plot with a frontage of 241 feet on Washington Street and 240 feet on Buckingham Street.

As a building erected there will have opposite, on the west, Lafayette Park, and, on the north, the new office building of the State, which is set well back from the street, there will always be unobstructed access for light and air from these points of the compass; and the indications are that anything which may be constructed on the land owned by others at the south or east will not be objectionable in these or in any other respects.

This site, chosen and purchased in contemplation of employing soon the Hoadley bequest as directed in the will, has met with cordial approval, so far as known, by members of the Society and the public in general as a location convenient for the people and a place with distinctive surroundings—the County Court House scarcely a block away, the fine State Office Building on the opposite side of Buckingham Street, the State Library and Supreme Court Building and the Horace Bushnell Memorial not much farther distant, and within a block or so the State Capitol.

This is the setting already provided for the prospective home of the Connecticut Historical Society. A structure in keeping with these buildings about it will be suited to the record and purpose of the Society. It has now passed the century mark since it was incorporated in 1825, "Upon the petition of John Trumbull and others . . . . for the purpose of discovering, procuring and preserving whatever may relate to the civil, ecclesiastical and natural history of the United States, and especially the State of Connecticut."

It has actively pursued the aims here set forth without interruption since the General Assembly "Resolved and Declared" in 1839 "that the existence of said Society as a body corporate with the powers and privileges originally granted thereto be continued and perpetuated as though its officers had been chosen annually since 1825," the interregnum being due to the removal from the State—within a year from their election in 1825—of Judge Trumbull and Professor (later Bishop) Doane, respectively the Society's President and Secretary.

It has accumulated during this period one of the most comprehensive historical and genealogical libraries in the country.

It has acquired by gift or purchase manuscripts and documents, many of which are fairly priceless to the historian, while some have proved to be of material value in the settlement of legal disputes.

It has assembled important collections of the Indian relics of Connecticut, which now await a suitable place for their exhibition.

It is the owner or custodian of many individual relics, of collections belonging to patriotic organizations, and collections preserved by the older families which have an intimate interest relating to the early history of the Colony and State.

The Society has come to be recognized as one of the foremost institutions of its kind, and of much more than local interest and service.

The arranging and exhibiting of its possessions for the convenience of investigators near and far and the instruction of the young—for there are many youthful visitors, sent by their teachers or coming of their own accord—are needs which at length influenced the Society to take definite measures toward giving the service for which it has been preparing during almost one hundred years.

The tract of land, with the several buildings standing thereon, has been purchased at a cost of $212,700.00. The inventory value of the Hoadley fund when received by the Society was $256,293.46. The amount now remaining—after paying for the land,—in cash and securities at their market value on May 1 is $391,262.32. Mr. Hoadley gave the Society in his lifetime securities specified by him as a nucleus for a building fund. Their value is now $19,079.42. There are general funds amounting to $186,725.10. Other funds given and bequeathed for specific purposes amount in all to $47,248.28.

It is clearly apparent that the amount of the Hoadley bequest now remaining in cash and securities is not sufficient for the purpose of erecting a building adequate to the present requirements of the Society and the accommodation of its future additions by gift or purchase, while leaving a fund the income of which will be sufficient for the proper maintenance of the building. Nor with the income available from other funds added, would there be sufficient for such maintenance, and for other necessary expenses, which should include a liberal amount for the purchase of additions to the Society's collections. It has been proposed, and the proposal is here offered for your consideration,—as there are at this time architects who have said that they are willing to enter into competition in preparing sketches and plans for this building, —that a competition be instituted, the general plan laid before the architects to be for a central building large enough for the present needs of the Society, fronting perhaps on Washington Street, which will be within the means of the Society to erect at once, with wings, say to the north and the south to provide in part for increase of the Society's collections, designed to be erected as soon as funds for the purpose are in hand.

The central unit would constitute a fireproof structure as directed in the Hoadley will "to be used and occupied in whole or in part" by this Society, with space sufficient for the present possessions of the Society, and room to set apart for occupancy by the Watkinson Library, if wanted, in deference to the wishes of David Watkinson thus stated in his will: "All monies given or bequeathed to them in this codicil in accordance with the directions herein given and particularly for the purpose of establishing in connection with the Connecticut Historical Society a library of reference . . . . . ."

It is further suggested that one of the wings to be added later might be assigned to the Watkinson Library to provide room for its future growth; that a wing symmetrical with this, at the other end of the central structure, be designed to contain the collections of hereditary and patriotic societies, family collections of historical interest and other similar collections owned by the Society, or entrusted to its care.

Such a hall to the Founders and Defenders of the Colony and State would furnish a permanent and fitting place for some of the fine paintings of historical importance which the Society now owns, among them a portrait of Jonathan Trumbull and his wife by their son, for portraits of Connecticut Signers of the Declaration of Independence and for the original Charter of the Colony now owned by the Society. There would be room here, with the space originally assigned to the Historical Society in the central building, for much increase in the Society's possessions and for the prospective development of its service to the people of Connecticut and to their heirs, and others of like interest, everywhere, who wish to avail themselves of its resources, or share in the promotion of its useful work.

George C. F. Williams,

President.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

Another year has passed and once more it becomes the duty of your librarian to render to you an account of his stewardship. Except for variation in totals and in identity of givers and of books or other objects named, there are no startling differences in these reports from year to year. They, like the work in the library, move along with a certain regularity.

The number of readers who made use of the library during the year was 3766, an increase of more than ten per cent over the previous year, and making the greatest number ever recorded in any year of the Society's history.

One important work which the Society has accomplished during the year is the issuing of a photostat reproduction of "The New London Summary," the earliest newspaper printed in that town and the second to be established in the Colony. The first number is believed to have been issued August 8, 1758 and publication ceased about the last of September 1763. Copies of 83 issues from September 29, 1758 (No. 8) to June 24, 1763 (No. 255) and a few duplicate numbers are all that are now known. The issue of December 31, 1762 was privately owned and permission to reproduce it could not be obtained. It has since been acquired by this Society. With the exception of a half dozen issues in other libraries, all of the known copies are owned by this Society or by the American Antiquarian Society. A number of libraries responded to the invitation to subscribe to this reissue. The thanks of all are due to Mr. Julius H. Tuttle, Librarian of the Massachusetts Historical Society, for his care and courtesy in attending to the actual work of reproduction.

A volume entitled "Some early records and documents of and relating to the town of Windsor, Conn., 1639-1703," was issued about the first of June. This is a square duodecimo of 227 pages. The longest and most important document in the volume is the record kept by Matthew Grant, often incorrectly referred to as the "Old Church Record." The information contained in this record had already been used, but it had never before been printed all together and literally, and some errors which had crept into the earlier copies have been corrected in this printing. The other five documents which make up the volume are here printed for the first time. The "Annual Report," a pamphlet of 70 pages, appeared in July. The twenty-third volume of our series of "Collections" was published in December. The title of this volume, which explains its contents, is "The Deane Papers: Correspondence between Silas Deane, his brothers, and their business and political associates, 1771-1795." The society has another volume almost through the press, and has material for two others under consideration for publication.

Our collection of coins has been increased by the addition of examples of 61 United States issues in silver and copper. A number of interesting medals also have been presented to us.

Only one eighteenth century Connecticut imprint has been added to our collection. This is the Acts and Laws passed at the session of October 1790.

Miss Theresa Grosvenor of Rochester, N. Y., has presented a pewter tankard formerly the property of the First Congregational Church in Pomfret, Conn., and doubtless a part of the earliest communion service of that church, which was organized in 1715. It bears the inscription "The Gift of Jose Grosvenor." Joseph Grosvenor, who was an ancestor of the donor, was born in Roxbury, Mass., September 1, 1689, became an early resident of Pomfret and passed the remainder of his life there. He died June 20, 1738 and is buried in the old cemetery in that town. This society has been for some years the custodian of the first pewter communion service of the Abington Church in Pomfret, which was organized in 1753. This consists of a tankard, a baptismal bowl, eight chalices and two patens, one of which is inscribed "The Gift of Samuel Craft To the Church of Abington 1753."

The printed accessions to the library for the past year are about fifteen per cent more than during the previous year. The gifts number 582 volumes, 449 pamphlets and 73 miscellaneous items. The purchases were 165 volumes, 216 pamphlets and 87 miscellaneous. These make a total of 1572 items added, without taking manuscripts into account. In addition there were several accessions that can only be designated as "lots." Among the purchases were 23 volumes and three pamphlets which are credited to the Lucy A. Brainard Book Fund; four volumes to the Charles J. Hoadly Fund, and two volumes to the William F. J. Boardman Fund.

The number of genealogies added to the library has been less than in some previous years. One reason is that the price at which recent genealogies are published and at which some of earlier date are offered, is so high that many of them are not considered to be worth the price that is asked. Another reason is that many of the so-called genealogies are in reality only the ancestral record of a certain person. While such records are frequently of interest, their value in a library is limited. The genealogical works acquired are: Atwood, Bishop, Bosworth, Brooks, Bullen, Collamer, Coolidge, Dommerich, Eddy, Ellsworth, Fitch, Foster-Ford-Sampson, Gillette, Hurlbut, Isbel, Jelke-Frazier, Kilpatrick, Laflin, McClellan-Mynderse, McNair, Olmsted, Reynolds, Robinson, Simmons, Sleight, Tilton, Wolcott.

Among publications of Connecticut interest added to the Library are Connecticut history stories by Daniel Howard, History of the Connecticut baptist convention, Centennial sermon before the Stonington union, Brief record of noted clergymen and missionaries from the First Episcopal Church in Middletown, William H. Hall's History of West Hartford, Daniel Lines Jacobus' Genealogies of Fairfield families, Black Rock the seaport of old Fairfield, Two hundred and fiftieth anniversary celebration of Enfield, Jared B. Standish's Settlement of Wethersfield, Hartland patriotic celebration, Herbert E. Sherwood's History of Stamford, Grace Denison Wheeler's Old homes in Stonington, a new edition to which is added inscriptions from the numerous grave yards in the town; Hamden men in the World War, Mrs. Helen Post Chapman's My Hartford of the nineteenth century, Two hundredth anniversary of the Kensington church, Arthur L. Peale's Memorials and pilgrimages in the Mohican country, two volumes of Genealogical and biographical records from Theodore Prahl of the States Historical Society, Glacial geology of Connecticut, Connecticut clock makers of the eighteenth century by Penrose R. Hoopes, New Haven Genealogical Magazine, The Winsted wildman, the third volume of Clarence W. Bowen's History of Woodstock, Barkhamsted's sesquicentennial, Sketch of the Congregational Society and church of East Granby, Map showing Indian trails, villages and sachemdoms by Mathias Spiess, Story of the Pequot War and Hartford backgrounds both by Howard Bradstreet. Four biographies of local interest, each presented by the author, are Nelson F. Adams' Life of Fitz Greene Hallock, Gordon S. Haight's Life of Lydia H. Sigourney, James L. Howard's Seth Harding, mariner and Mrs. Emily E. F. Skeel's Noah Webster. Other biographies are The two spies Nathan Hale and Robert Townsend by Morton Pennypacker and William Bradford of Plymouth by Albert H. Plumb.

The Hartford Printing Company has continued its annual gift of directories of different cities, this year's donation consisting of 289 volumes. These old directories are frequently consulted and it is to be regretted that want of room has forced us to place many of the earlier issues in storage for the present. Among other books of interest may be mentioned Year book of the Society of Colonial Wars in Massachusetts from Walter R. Watkins, Palaeography, being a list of ancient English documents, from Rev. Arthur Adams; 18 pamphlets relating to Abraham Lincoln from Emanuel Hertz, Lineage books of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, two rare pamphlets by Lorenzo Dow, Life of Rev. Peter Powers by Rudge Nichols, Victoria history of Northamptonshire, volume 3, the second volume of Colonial records of Spanish Florida, Scenes and characters of the Massachusetts Bay Colony by Charles K. Bolton, The Winthrop fleet of 1630 and Planters of the Commonwealth, both by Charles E. Banks; History of Machu Picchu by Hiram Bingham.

Dr. William Scott's Cases in Midwifery in Manchester, 1834-1876.
Civil War letters of Orra B. Bailey of Hartford, 1862-1864.

Among these manuscripts are several which should receive special mention. The orderly book and journal of Ben Adam Gallup of Groton are of value as being a part of the history of Connecticut's part in the French and Indian War. The General Nathaniel Lyon papers give information not generally known about his estate and his relatives who shared in it. The two volumes of Bible records copied and presented by Miss Collins are of much genealogical interest. The papers of Samuel Welles of Glastonbury deal in part with the politics of the period, and with them were a number of political broadsides that were of unusual interest. The Journal of the House of Representatives of Connecticut for the October session of 1776, which unfortunately is incomplete, is a copy from the original which is not known to be now in existence. The copy of the New Preston Hill Church records is a valued gift from a recently elected member. The list of Connecticut Revolutionary War rolls in the old records section of the War Department at Washington is an important compilation for reference. The Silliman correspondence, mainly letters from Mrs. Mary (Noyes) Silliman to her son Rev. John Noyes gives a picture of the life of an educated family in Connecticut during the last half of the eighteenth and beginning of the nineteenth centuries. The genealogical material received from Mrs. Perry is always the result of much careful and painstaking research by her. The 32 volumes presented by Mr. Blanchfield comprise the account books, letter books, mailing list books, paper mill books and inventory books of the Goodwin family of Hartford, in various partnership and firm combinations, from 1806 to 1849. They contain much interesting information relating to the publication of the Connecticut Courant. The copies of marriage and death notices taken from the Courant are of much value and interest. They include not only items from Hartford, but also from other parts of the state and not infrequently from other states.

Miss Kidder, who came to the library a year ago, has proved herself an interested assistant and a diligent worker.

Respectfully submitted,

Albert C. Bates,

Librarian.

Resolve Incorporating

The Connecticut Historical Society.

Passed May, 1825; Renewed May, 1839;
Amended February, 1905, May, 1925, March, 1929, March, 1931.

Resolved by this Assembly, That John Trumbull, Thomas C. Brownell, Timothy Pitkin, John S. Peters, William W. Ellsworth, Thomas Day, Thomas Robins, Daniel Burhans, Thomas Hubbard, Isaac Toucey, Nathaniel S. Wheaton, George Sumner, Roger M. Sherman, William T. Williams, Martin Wells, Joseph Battell, William Cooley, Thomas H. Gallaudet, Thomas S. Williams, Eli Todd, Walter Mitchell, George W. Doane, Samuel B. Woodward, S. H. Huntington, Samuel W. Dana, James Gould, Samuel A. Foote, Nathan Johnson, Hawley Olmsted, Benjamin Trumbull, John Hall, and their associates and successors, be, and hereby are ordained, constituted and declared to be forever hereafter, a body corporate, by the name of The Connecticut Historical Society, and by that name, they, their associates and successors shall and may have perpetual succession; shall be capable of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, and also to purchase, receive, hold and convey any estate, real or personal, to an amount not exceeding four million dollars; and may have a common seal, and the same may alter at pleasure, may establish rules relative to the admission of future members; may ordain, establish, and put in execution such by-laws and regulations, not contrary to the provisions of this charter, or the laws of this State, as shall be deemed necessary for the government of said Corporation.

The Governor of this State, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Judges of the Superior Court, shall be ex officio members of the Society.

Said Corporation shall meet once a year for the choice of a President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and such other officers as may be designated from time to time by the by-laws of the Society.

The first meeting of the Society shall be holden at the State House in Hartford at such time as shall be designated by the Honorable John Trumbull, notice thereof being previously given in one or more newspapers printed in Hartford.

Provided, nevertheless, that this act of incorporation shall be subject to be revoked or altered, at the pleasure of the General Assembly.

By-Laws.

ARTICLE I. MEMBERS.

SECTION 1. The Society shall consist of active, corresponding, and honorary members. Only active members shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Corresponding and honorary members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or dues.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

SECTION 2. Every application for active membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicant, shall be supported by the written recommendation of at least one active member residing in the State of Connecticut, and shall be accompanied by the admission fee of three dollars. Such applications must be made upon blank forms furnished by the Society and shall contain a brief personal sketch of the applicant.

Every nomination for the election of corresponding or honorary members shall be based upon the application, in writing, of at least two active members, residing in the State of Connecticut, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

SECTION 3. No person shall be voted for as an active, corresponding, or honorary member until at least the meeting next succeeding the one at which his election is recommended by the Committee on Membership.

Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the Committee on Membership shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds of the members present.

SECTION 4. Active members shall pay as annual dues to the Society three dollars if they reside within the City of Hartford, and two dollars if they reside without said city. Any active member, not indebted to the Society for dues, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of fifty dollars.

The annual dues of members shall be payable in advance on the first day of May in each year. The payment of the annual dues shall constitute a condition for membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after they become due shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

ARTICLE II. OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be, a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, an Auditor, a Committee on Membership to consist of seven members, Committees on the Library, on Publication, on Finance, and on Monthly Papers, each to consist of three members. The Committee on Finance may with the Treasurer select any Trust Company that it may see fit, to assist the Treasurer in the work of his office. Only active members resident in the State of Connecticut shall be eligible to office.

The preceding officers and the chairmen of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

The presiding officer shall name the members of all special committees ordered raised at any meeting.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed by the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

SECTION 2. The President shall be chairman of the Standing Committee, and a member ex officio of the Committees on Membership, the Library, Publication and Finance; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and of the Standing Committee; and shall deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

The Recording Secretary shall call all meetings of the Society; shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; and shall keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and of the Standing Committee.

The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence in behalf of the Society.

The Treasurer shall be ex officio a member of the Committee on Finance; shall receive the admission fees, and report the names of the persons paying the same to the Recording Secretary; shall receive all other moneys due, and all donations or bequests of money made to the Society; shall pay to the order of the chairman of the Standing Committee such sums as may be required for the ordinary expenses of the Society and such as the Society or Standing Committee may otherwise direct to be paid; shall keep a true and faithful account of all moneys received and paid by him, and of the property and debts of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting, render an audited statement thereof.

The Librarian, under the direction of the Committee on the Library, shall arrange and have charge of all books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other articles belonging to or deposited in the rooms of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting of the Society, make a full report of his doings as Librarian during the past year, and of the condition of the Library.

The Auditor shall, prior to the annual meeting, examine the books, accounts and financial statements of the Treasurer, and compare the same with the vouchers and securities in the Treasurer's hands and certify the result of such examination to the Society.

SECTION 3. The Committee on Membership shall consider all applications for membership, and shall report to the Society such applications as said Committee may approve and recommend for admission. No applications for membership shall be considered or acted upon by said Committee during a meeting of the Society.

The Committee on the Library shall have the general oversight and management of the Library, manuscripts and other collections belonging to or deposited with the Society. Said Committee shall make purchases for the library to such an amount as may be appropriated from time to time for the purpose.

The Committee on Publication shall have the superintendence of all publications ordered by the Society. They shall, from time to time, report to the Society respecting the selection and arrangement of such papers, from the library of the Society or other sources, as are most suitable for publication in volumes of the Society's Collections.

The Committee on Monthly Papers shall provide for a paper to be read at each regular meeting of the Society.

The Standing Committee shall act generally in behalf of the Society, and shall fill all vacancies in any offices until the next regular meeting of the Society. Any five members of this Committee may constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a notice for a meeting of the Society shall be deemed a notice for a meeting of this Committee. Special meetings of this Committee may be called by the Recording Secretary by direction of the President.

ARTICLE III. MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. An annual meeting shall be held in the month of May, at such time as the Standing Committee shall appoint.

A regular meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month from October to May inclusive, unless otherwise ordered.

SECTION 2. Special meetings shall be called by direction of the President, or, in his absence, on the application of three active members to the Recording Secretary.

Notice of each meeting of the Society shall be sent by mail to each active member at least two days prior thereto. And at any meeting, duly called and notified, ten members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

ARTICLE IV. DONATIONS AND DEPOSITS.

All donations to and deposits with the Society shall be entered in books kept for that purpose.

No donations shall be exchanged or disposed of unless the Society have a duplicate of the same.

All deposits left with the Society shall be carefully preserved, and may at any time be taken away by the depositor in person, or delivered on his written order. But every deposit which has not been so reclaimed or withdrawn shall, after the decease of the depositor, be entered as a donation, and be deemed the property of the Society; unless, at the time of making the deposit, other conditions shall have been prescribed by the depositor.

ARTICLE V. LIBRARY.

The rooms, with all books, manuscripts, pictures, and articles belonging to or deposited with the Society, shall be under the immediate charge of the Librarian, acting under the direction of the Committee on the Library.

The library shall be open for the inspection of the public, and the examination of books and manuscripts, and transcription therefrom, at such time, and on such conditions, as shall be prescribed by the Committee on the Library; and no book or manuscript shall be taken from the rooms without a special vote of the Society, except by the Committee on Publication.

ARTICLE VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by its late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund, the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Committee on Publication, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

ARTICLE VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

President's Address.

This Society now has a membership of five hundred and forty. Thirty of the active members are members for life. During the year twenty-four have been admitted to active membership; one to corresponding and one to honorary membership. Five members, one of them an ex officio member, have died. Eleven members have resigned and several have been dropped for non payment of dues.

The members whom the Society has lost by death in the course of the year are:

James Weld Cartwright of Hampton, Conn., a retired business man and a person of fine taste, admitted February 2, 1926, died September 28, 1931.

Frederic Clarence Bissell of Hartford, Conn., admitted February 2, 1897, was much interested in genealogical studies and in the work of the patriotic societies. He died December 19, 1931.

Edward M. Yeomans, of Andover, Conn., who, as judge of the superior court, was a member ex officio. He became a member of the Society February 26, 1926. He died December 31, 1931.

Mrs. Idah Meacham Strobridge, a resident of Los Angeles, California, but a descendant of New England stock who was much interested in genealogical work and the author of an unpublished history of the Meacham family, was admitted November 7, 1928 and died February 8, 1932.

Charles Whitney Page, for many years a practising physician in Hartford, Conn., admitted May 3, 1921, died February 16, 1932.

Frank Grant of Westfield, Mass., was admitted April 7, 1925 and died March 5, 1932. He was much interested in the growth and improvement of his city's library.

William H. Scoville, a well known builder in Hartford, Conn., admitted February 7, 1911, died March 16, 1932.

Gilbert W. Chapin of Hartford, Conn., author of an extensive genealogy of the Chapin family, admitted March 1, 1904, died April 1, 1932.

Gerald A. Rochford, a business man of Hartford, was admitted November 7, 1928 and died April 22, 1932.

George P. McLean of Simsbury, Conn., for many years United States senator from this State, was admitted December 6, 1910 and died May 6, 1932.

November 3rd, 1931, The Metropolitan Museum of Art of New York requested the loan of the portraits of Judge and Mrs. Stephen Mix Mitchell painted by Samuel F. B. Morse, for an exhibition to be held from January to March of 1932. The Society voted to grant the request of the Museum for these portraits.

February 2nd, 1932, The Society was requested by the Ruth Wyllys Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution to send representatives to form a part of the Honorary Committee for the Commemoration of the 200th Anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The committee appointed by vote of the Society were: Charles G. Woodward and Morgan B. Brainard.

March 1st, 1932, An invitation from the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia was received asking this Society to appoint one or more delegates to represent it at the annual meeting of the Academy to be held in Philadelphia, April 15th and 16th, 1932. Miss May Atherton Leach was appointed a delegate from this Society.

The papers read at the monthly meetings were as follows:

At the October meeting a paper entitled "Isaac Fitch, 1734-1791, Connecticut Architect," was read by Miss Alice M. Gay.

Mr. Creel Richardson, M.A. of Hartford, read a paper on "The Simsbury Copper Mines" at the November meeting.

A paper upon the "Evolution of the Incandescent Lamp" was presented at the December meeting by Mr. Samuel Ferguson.

"Salisbury, the Godmother of Vermont" was the title of the paper read at the January meeting by Rev. John Calvin Goddard.

At the February meeting Albert C. Bates read a paper entitled "Some New Views Relating to the Charter of Connecticut."

Arthur L. Shipman presented at the March meeting a paper entitled "Whither England".

A paper upon "Gœthe and America" was read by Professor Archie R. Bangs of Trinity College at the April meeting.

At the meeting on May 3rd a paper was read by Professor Charles J. Rohr of Trinity College on "Education in Colonial Maryland."

THE FUNDAMENTAL ORDERS OF CONNECTICUT.

The by-laws of this society direct that its president "shall deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting." The opportunity which is presented in this alternative, I am appropriating at this time from motives wholly ulterior but perfectly pure. This guileful advantage of an audience which has been attracted here by the prospect of listening to the reading of annual reports is taken solely for the purpose of offering for criticism portions of a paper on the Fundamental Orders of Connecticut which has been prepared from data that I have been for some time getting together.

Among the faithful few likely to be gathered here, it seemed probable that serious interest and patient attention could be counted upon concerning this subject of so great import to the prestige of our State, while perfect freedom in expressing the intimate comments desired upon conclusions stated in the paper could with some confidence be assumed.

More remote and probably less promising of results, is the wish to bring out criticisms later from interested persons who may chance to read the printed report of these proceedings.

The instrument of civil government called the Fundamental Orders, adopted by the founders of the Colony of Connecticut, at Hartford, January 14th, 1639, is believed one of the most notable of the contributions which Connecticut as a colony and as a state has made to the welfare and progress of all people. Perhaps it has been the most helpful of them all. That is a surmise which will bear more examination than it has yet received, although numberless pages have been written during the three centuries, approximately, which have passed since the Fundamental Orders were adopted, from one point of view or another, and learned discourses, certainly not a few, have been pronounced with the Fundamental Orders as their theme.

In some instances, it is true, claims have been advanced that have appeared extravagant, and which have, in consequence, invited and received adverse criticism. But, in general, historians have not lacked in freely granting to the ancient document an early place and an influential one in the gradual evolution of the written constitution of civil government that we have today. If the impression that the most painstaking and impartial investigators who have written on the subject have intended to give seems not always to have been precisely received, by all who have turned the pages, and the quotations taken from these writings appear not to have been invariably made with exactness by less careful readers, comments commonly have been fair and often laudatory. But there has not been entire uniformity on the part of the recognized authorities in assigning to the Fundamental Orders a place in category and precedence among the instruments that have been devised for government by the people.

Circumlocution would be saved, at the least, if some brief formula of words could be derived from the known facts, which, while fervid enough to manifest the glow felt by persons ardently loyal to Connecticut traditions, would also be sufficiently restrained to satisfy the critical historian who has weighed impartially all the evidence in the case. And that is the kernel of the matter, so far as the purpose of this paper goes.

The incentive for an examination of the subject with this end in view, at the present time, is the attention which will be paid to this early frame of government by the people here and abroad in connection with the exercises for commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Colony, plans for which are now being made by authority of special acts passed by the General Assembly of the State in 1929 and 1931.

The importance, in the history of constitutions, which may attach to an instrument of civil government which has been given the very general attention that this has received from historians and constitutional philosophers, is attested by this observation by Lord Bryce, as quoted in "Modern Political Constitutions" by C. F. Strong: "Every creation of a new scheme of government is a precious addition to the political resources of mankind. It represents a survey and scrutiny of the constitutional experience of the past. It embodies an experiment full of instruction for the future." And another opinion applying more specifically to this topic is given by the same authority in his "Modern Democracies": "The instruments which we call Constitutions are among the greatest contributions ever made to politics as a practical art; and they are also the most complete and definite concrete expressions ever given to the fundamental principles of democracy."

Any discussion of the Fundamental Orders would naturally begin by quoting the preamble of the document, stating the purpose of its authors. In this instance that recital is necessary, for the intention of the founders of the Colony in framing and adopting the eleven articles that follow has been in dispute and the preamble shows clearly their intent. That stately and reverent declaration which the authors made in setting forth their purpose in framing the eleven articles submitted, as it has come down to us, is this:

"Forasmuch as it hath pleased the Allmighty God by the wise disposition of his diuyne p^ruidence so to Order and dispose of things that we the Inhabitants and Residents of Windsor, Harteford and Wethersfield are now cohabiting and dwelling in and vppon the River of Conectecotte and the Lands thereunto adioyneing; And well knowing where a people are gathered togather the word of God requires that to mayntayne the peace and vnion of such a people there should be an orderly and decent Gouerment established according to God, to order and dispose of the affayres of the people at all seasons as occation shall require; doe therefore assotiate and conioyne our selues to be as one Publike State or Comonwelth; and doe, for our selues and our Successors and such as shall be adioyned to vs att any tyme hereafter, enter into Combination and Confederation togather, to mayntayne and p^r^searue the liberty and purity of the gospell of our Lord Jesus wch we now p^r^fesse, as also the disciplyne of the Churches, wch according to the truth of the said gospell is now practised amongst vs; As also in o^r^ Ciuell Affaires to be guided and gouerned according to such Lawes, Rules, Orders and decrees as shall be made, ordered & decreed,. as followeth: . . . . "

The wording of this preamble places the document in the category of social compacts. The opinion has been advanced that the eleven articles of the Fundamental Orders are only statutes—like "ordinary laws". But this distinction is made by Justice Story in "Commentaries on The Constitution of the United States": "The language of a compact is, I will or will not do this; that of a law is, Thou shalt or shalt not do it." According to this dictum the document called The Fundamental Orders is placed definitively among the compacts.

It is not, however, the first voluntary social compact made in this country with the purpose in view of forming a civil government. This honor belongs to the Mayflower Compact, signed aboard that vessel in 1620, which much attention in recent years has made more widely and more familiarly known today than is the instrument of government adopted at Hartford in 1639.

And even greater renown than this is claimed for the Mayflower Compact by Francis Newton Thorpe, "Professor of Constitutional History, University of Pennsylvania." In his "History of the American People," he says: "In 1620, the Pilgrims while yet on board the Mayflower, drew up and signed the famous Compact . . . , which was the first written constitution in America." This is a place in the history of the development of the constitution in this country that historians in general have accorded the Fundamental Orders. But Professor Thorpe's book is still on the shelves of many libraries, and his statement, though it is exceptional, is not to be casually passed over.

Moreover, Senator Lodge, who spoke at both the laying of the corner stone, and the dedication of the Pilgrim Monument at Plymouth, said in his first address: . . . "I think it may be safely asserted that this Compact of the Mayflower, expanded later into what was known as the 'Fundamentals' [of Massachusetts], is the first in the long line of written constitutions with which modern times have become so familiar."

In his address at the dedication of the monument Senator Lodge said: "Three years since, on the laying of the corner stone, I spoke of . . . the idea of an organic law, adopted by all the people, changeable only by the act of all the people, above all other laws, the bulwark and defense of certain rights, and the embodiment of certain other fundamental principles, lying at the root of free government. In this conception we see the origin of the written constitution which has played so great a part in modern history."

Lord Bryce, eminent among the political scientists, gives his view of the Mayflower Compact in "The American Commonwealth," where he says: "The agreement drawn up in the cabin of the Mayflower may perhaps claim to have in it the germs of a government."

Daniel Webster, a constitutional lawyer of note in his day, in his famous address delivered at Plymouth in 1820, on the Two Hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims did not mention the Mayflower Compact.

Dr. Charles Borgeaud, Professor of Comparative Constitutional Law at the University of Geneva, in "The Rise of Modern Democracy in Old and New England," published in 1894, treats of the Mayflower Compact and of the Fundamental Orders; and, in reply to an inquiry made about a part of that book, he wrote me a year or so ago: "Of course the Mayflower Compact of the Pilgrim Fathers is older than your Connecticut Orders and is the first in date of American compacts, but it does not organize the government of a democratic state in the explicit manner which can be noticed in the Hartford Orders."

It may be that there are others, besides Professor Tucker and Senator Lodge, the two who have been quoted here, who have called the Mayflower Compact a constitution, but after considering the differing views that have been given, together with Senator Lodge's qualified views in his second address, there will doubtless be general agreement that the claim that the Mayflower Compact is a constitution of government must always lack, as it seems to now, convincing support.

A conclusion which probably will be accepted by the great majority is the following given by Dr. Douglas Campbell in "The Puritan in Holland, England and America": "In 1639, a written instrument was signed by which the three towns [sic] of Windsor, Wethersfield and Hartford became associated as one body politic. Citizens of Connecticut with very just pride point to this instrument . . . as the First American written constitution, for the compact on the Mayflower was merely an agreement to found a government, leaving its character to be determined in the future. But in view of the fact that the Netherland Republic had for about half a century been living under the 'Union of Utrecht' which was a written constitution pure and simple, writers are hardly warranted in calling this the first instrument of the kind known to history."

His estimate of the Mayflower Compact seems exact, and, to that extent, his opinion is a welcome contribution to this discussion; but when he drags in the Union of Utrecht he introduces a troublesome matter which might be the source of a long discussion.*

It must suffice here, however, to quote from Motley's "Dutch Republic," which was evidently Campbell's source, these comments: "The establishment of a Republic, which lasted two centuries, . . . was the result of the Utrecht Union; but it was not a premeditated result."

"Its foundation was a compact, not a constitution."

Dr. Hannis Taylor, in "The Origin and Growth of the American Constitution," at a stroke, disposes of the Union of Utrecht as a novelty; and, by implication, catalogues as Constitutions that document, as well as the structures of sundry classic examples of government "more or less democratic in character," thus showing that there is no yardstick to determine which of the documents with "some germs of a government" (as Bryce says of the Mayflower Compact) can be included with, and which must be excluded from, the category of constitutions. "Our first Federal Constitution," he says, "as embodied in the Articles of Confederation was simply a servile copy of that ancient type of a federal league whose monotonous history extends without material variation from the Greek confederations down to the rise of the Seven United Provinces of the Netherlands, whose articles of association were taken as the standard for imitation."

It is plain that the instrument named the Fundamental Orders, which was framed to establish, and upon its adoption did establish, an independent government of all the people by themselves, belongs to a more select order of Constitutions than do these (even though written) which are grouped in the foregoing quotation,—provided that we can call that ancient frame of government, a Constitution. Its authors did not call it a Constitution. The word was not in use with its present meaning in 1639.*

Less ink might have flowed over the dam in the intervening years if the authors of the Fundamental Orders had devised also the title which in later years came to be the customary designation of such instruments, at the same time when they devised the scheme of a written frame of government.

And a "frame of government" or "form of government," the document is admitted to be, even by those who have balked at granting the Fundamental Orders the title of constitution. For example, Robert Luce, A.M., LL.D., and a member of Congress, in his book "Legislative Principles," while calling the Fundamental Orders rather persistently a compact, adds: "The men of Connecticut, through the lack of a charter at the outset, won the credit of being the first by independent act to formulate on paper a democratic plan of government."

Dr. Luce quotes from Professor Osgood's "American Colonies in the Seventeenth Century," as most other writers on the subject appear to have done since the publication of the volumes with that title. He refers to the work when saying of the Fundamental Orders, that the instrument "could be and was changed like any other statute by the General Court." But Professor Osgood does not say "any other statute." He says: " . . . as the document contained no provision for amendment, the general court assumed and exercised the right to change it, as it would any statute." Moreover, in that rigorously impartial examination of the Fundamental Orders from which Dr. Luce quotes, Professor Osgood says: " . . . the Fundamental Orders were evidently adopted by a convention of all the free planters held at Hartford, January 14, 1639, and hence must rank formally as a fundamental law or written constitution . . . ."

The dictionaries are broadly inclusive in their definitions of the word constitution. An example is a much respected authority, "Murray's New English Dictionary." The definition given there, which admits under the title, documents which are not adopted by all the people but only by their representatives, is:

"A system or body of fundamental principles according to which a nation, state or body politic is constituted or governed. This may be embodied in successive concessions on the part of the sovereign power, implied in long accepted statutes, or established gradually by precedent, as in the British Constitution; or it may be formally set forth in a document framed and adopted on a particular occasion by the various orders or members of the commonwealth, or their representatives . . . In either case it is assumed or specifically provided that the constitution is more fundamental than any particular law, and contains the principles with which all legislation must be in harmony . . . "

Judicial dicta on the subject agree, in effect, to use Justice Story's words, that Constitutions are "forms of government, ordained and established by the people," but they do not prescribe uniformly the manner of adoption or other essential features of the documents. They do not establish a definite formula with which the document must accord to qualify for the title of Constitution, as a few examples will show:—

Van Horne v. Dorrance, 2 Dallas, 304, Circuit Court Pennsylvania, 1795, gives:

"What is a constitution? It is the form of government created by the mighty hand of the people in which certain first principles of fundamental laws are established. The Constitution is certain and fixed; it contains the permanent will of the people and is the supreme law of the land; it is paramount to the power of the legislature and can be revoked and altered only by the authority that made it.

" . . . The Constitution of a State is stable and permanent, not to be worked upon by the temper of the times nor to rise and fall with the tide of events; notwithstanding the competition of opposing interests, it remains firm and immovable as a mountain amidst the strife of storms, or a rock in the ocean amidst the raging of the waves . . . The Constitution is the basis of legislative authority; it lies at the foundation of all law and is a rule of commission by which both legislatures and judges are to proceed."

"Judicial and Statutory Definitions of Words and Phrases," citing McKean v. Devries, 3 Barb. 196, 198 (quoting 1 Story, Const. 338, 339); Church v. Kelsey, 7 Sup. Ct. 897, 898, 121 U. S. 282, 30 L. Ed. 960, gives:

"A constitution is defined by Judge Story to be a fundamental law or basis of government. It is established by the people, in their original sovereign capacity, to promote their own happiness, and permanently to secure their rights, property, independence, and common welfare."

The People v. New York Central RR. Co. 24 New York 485 (1861), New York Court of Appeals, gives:

"A Constitution is an instrument of government made and adopted by the people for practical purposes connected with the common business and wants of human life."

The confusion is reduced to some order in terms by C. F. Strong in "Modern Political Constitutions," by dividing the various forms of constitutions into two great classes, the "rigid" constitution and the "flexible." The distinction is: "The constitution which can be altered or amended without any special machinery is a flexible constitution. The constitution which requires special procedure for its alteration or amendment is a rigid constitution."

For an examination of the Fundamental Orders with reference to their fitness for inclusion within the scope of the definitions given by the authorities, the summary of the eleven articles made by Benjamin Trumbull in his "History of Connecticut" will serve.* That summary will seem to the average reader to show that the Fundamental Orders provided a practical "frame of government"—sufficient for the foundation of a government, devised, as this was, with the purpose primarily of establishing and protecting the rights of all the people.

That this was the purpose is plainly shown by the familiar extract from Thomas Hooker's sermon—and in the context—as quoted in "The Religious Background of American Culture," by Dr. Thomas Cuming Hall, (Professor of English and American History and Culture, University of Goettingen): "The settlement of Connecticut furnishes another example of the drift away from the theocratic idea of a Puritan type, when under the influence of Thomas Hooker (1596-1647) a civil government was established with no provision for membership in any church organization. In a sermon on Deuteronomy I:13, Hooker set forth three principles: '1. The choice of public magistrates belongs unto the people, by God's own allowance. 2. The privilege of election which belongs to the people must not be exercised according to their humors, but according to the blessed will of God. 3. They who have power to appoint officers and magistrates, it is in their power also to set the bounds and limits of the power and place unto which they call them.' "

"Frame of Government," form of Government and Constitution are terms that had come to be used interchangeably in the few years just before the authors of the Constitution of the United States said in 1787: "We the people . . . do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

The Fundamental Orders were, it is universally admitted, a "Frame of Government," they were termed by their authors FUNDAMENTAL, and that is the word used by Lexicographer, Jurist, Historian and Political Scientist in defining the organic law of a state. The document clearly comes within the bounds of the definitions which have been quoted from these sources.

But the objection has been raised that there is no provision in the document for its amendment later—not a delinquency, to be sure, sufficient actually to disqualify it for the title of constitution, but a defect that impairs its worthiness to bear the title confidently among all the other constitutions in America without deference or apology.

However, Justice Story says in "Commentaries on the Constitution of the United States": "The understanding is general, if not universal, that, having been adopted by the majority of the people, the constitution of the state binds the whole community proprio vigore; and is unalterable, unless by the consent of the majority of the people, or at least of the qualified voters of the State, in the manner prescribed by the constitution or otherwise provided for by the majority." And in another place he speaks of a fundamental law as a thing to be changed "in the manner prescribed by its own rules or in the implied [italics introduced here] resulting power."

David Daggett, who was later chief justice of the State, contended in an "argument before the general assembly of Connecticut, October, 1804, in the case of certain Justices of the Peace," that, in the Fundamental Orders the General Court was definitely given the power to amend.

Mr. Daggett prefaced his argument by quoting in full the eleven articles of the Fundamental Orders, and then said: "On a close attention to this Constitution it will appear that it contains the vital principles of our present government. The governor, assistants and deputies form the Legislature. The governor and assistants were to be chosen once in each year—the deputies were to be chosen for every general court, and of these courts there were to be two every year. This constitution was also formed for those free planters and for such as should be adjoined to them at any time thereafter. The powers vested in this general court, were just such as the people saw fit to give them; and surely, the people, who are the source of all power, might controul this subject. These powers are thus expressed [quoting from Article 10]:

"In which said general court shall consist the supreme power of the commonwealth, and they only shall have power to make laws or repeal them, to grant levies, to admit freemen, to dispose of lands not disposed of to several towns or persons, and also shall have power to call other courts or magistrates, or any other person whatsoever into question for any misdemeanor; and may for just cause displace or deal otherwise, according to the nature of the offense, AND ALSO MAY DEAL IN ANY OTHER MATTER THAT CONCERNS THE GOOD OF THIS COMMONWEALTH EXCEPT

THE ELECTION OF MAGISTRATES WHICH SHALL BE DONE BY THE WHOLE BODY OF FREEMEN." The last sentence is capitalized in the published report of his speech.

Mr. Daggett then argued: "It is an important fact in this controversy that the above clause of the original constitution in all its substantial parts has ever been deemed a fundamental regulation in the government of Connecticut. It is found in every book of statutes from 1672 to 1796, and is now in full force. Thus the people, in 1639, vested the general court, or assembly, with the power of making and repealing all laws, and of dealing in all other matters except the choice of magistrates. And might not the people grant this power? . . . ." "But it is objected . . . . . [that alterations have been made, etc.] To these objections it may be replied, the Legislature had the power, by the original compact made by the people, of making all these alterations—they have made them, and there has been an acquiescence of more than a century without a murmer. Who then shall complain?"

Then we have a written Frame of Government, with the exceptional characteristic that it was adopted by vote of the people, which was not considered by its authors the last word in the making of an organic law, but—if we accept David Daggett's interpretation—included provision for its amending. It was not so complete in all details as was the United States Constitution adopted in 1787, which has since been given nineteen amendments, but nevertheless it was a practical frame of government under which the "ciuell affaires" of the Colony functioned for more than twenty years—until the charter was obtained.

It has been given the title of Constitution without any reservation whatsoever by the constitutional scientists.

Justice Story says: "Connecticut was originally settled under the protection of Massachusetts: but the inhabitants in a few year afterwards . . . felt at liberty (after the example of Massachusetts) to frame a constitution of government and laws for themselves."

" . . . they . . continued to act under the constitution of government, which they had framed in 1638. By that constitution, which was framed by the inhabitants of the towns" etc.

DeTocqueville in "Democracy in America" says: "In Connecticut the electoral body consisted from its origin, of the whole number of citizens," and refers to a foot-note in which is: "Constitution of 1638."

Lord Bryce and Professor Borgeaud are among other "constitutional scientists" of the first order in repute who agree with Justice Story and DeTocqueville. Simeon E. Baldwin is another. Besides having been appointed Chief Justice and elected Governor of the State, he has been admitted to the order of historians—even constitutional historians.

Other Connecticut lawyers besides Justice Baldwin who have recorded their views in favor of giving to the Fundamental Orders the title of Constitution are:

Judge William J. Hamersley, in "Connecticut: Origin of her Constitution and Laws."

Henry C. Robinson, in "Connecticut Constitutions."

Chief Justice David Daggett, who has already been quoted.

And our present Chief Justice William M. Maltbie.*

"The Venerable historian of Connecticut," as Daniel Webster characterized Benjamin Trumbull in his Plymouth address of 1820, used the word Constitution when mentioning the Fundamental Orders in his "History of Connecticut," which was undertaken in 1774, interrupted by the War of the American Revolution, and printed in 1797.

So did Charles J. Hoadly, formerly State Librarian, in "The Three Constitutions of Connecticut," and J. Hammond Trumbull, in "The True-Blue Laws of Connecticut and New Haven and the False Blue Laws," etc. and in "Historical Notes on the Constitutions of Connecticut."

Among historians not residents of the State who named the Fundamental Orders a Constitution in their published works are:

Alexander Johnston in "Connecticut, A Study of a Commonwealth Democracy."

John Fiske in "The Beginnings of New England."

And Woodrow Wilson, who says in "A History of the American People": " . . . in 1639 they adopted a formal constitution, which they called their 'Fundamental Orders'."

It appears therefore that the Fundamental Orders should be called a constitution; that the document was also (what Motley says the Union of Utrecht was not) "an a priori Constitution," and that it belongs in the more select class of constitutions by Strong designated, the "Rigid Constitution," unless we disregard David Daggett's interpretation.

The place that belongs to it in precedence among the constitutions is not so clear. The Mayflower Compact, as we have seen, has few sponsors for the claim that it be classed among the constitutions of civil government. And there is the opinion of so high an authority among the constitutional philosophers as Lord Bryce, in "The American Commonwealth," that: "The oldest truly political Constitution in America is the instrument called the Fundamental Orders of Connecticut framed by the inhabitants of Windsor, Hartford and Wethersfield."

Breckinridge Long says: "The Fundamental Orders of Connecticut were the first articles of association to be entered into in America by independent political units. That circumstance alone would entitle them to a high place in the consideration of constitutional development. Irrespective of that, however, they deserve a still higher place because of the principles enunciated, principles which are now universally held to be necessary for the existence of democratic government."

Charles M. Andrews, our great authority on American Colonial History has said:—

"In the midst of the British Colonial world, while other colonists were undergoing alterations in their political status and were one by one changing into royal governments, Connecticut, a colony so small as to be hardly visible from across the water, was experimenting with a remarkable group of political ideals, chief among which was the right to exercise in all parts of her political system a complete control of her own affairs. Though a British colony and owing the king loyalty and obedience, she was in fact conducting herself as a petty autonomous state, choosing her own governor, council and assembly, appointing her own officials, making her own laws, exercising her own justice, and raising her own revenue.

"The Fundamental Orders—a remarkable production of this early period of thought—I have felt represented a magnificent issue in respect of the mental activities of the leading men of the Colony during those early years. I can get very enthusiastic about that process—the slow working out of a great document, in the attempt to determine what to use, by careful debate and consideration among themselves; for I do not think the public at large had anything to do with that. The few men who sat at Hartford were the ones who drafted the document; and when I think of them as sitting around a table considering the question of what would be the best form, having before them the examples of Massachusetts and of Plymouth, and then in the conclusion, based upon the careful thinking out of the best portions of these models to accept and to perfect, finally setting down that very extraordinary body of articles, eleven with the preamble, which do constitute a very real frame of government for a colony or for a state—I can become very enthusiastic. It was more than a colony's government; it was formed without any regard to the powers of England. It put no one over them, even Massachusetts had then been thrown aside, and they had there to solve the problem of how best to organize themselves and how best to create something that would be a reasonable form of government under which all might live in peace and happiness and contentment, and, above all things, worship God according to their own ideas.

"As to the value of those articles, as to their significance as representative of a Puritan ideal of government, and as to their place in our national history as representing the first occasion in the history of this country when a popular government was established free from any power over and above themselves, those articles have a value that is beyond the praise of any speaker on any occasion."

The way seems clear enough for placing the Fundamental Orders first among the written constitutions in America. These historians (and many others) accord the Fundamental Orders this priority and the proponents of the Mayflower Compact have failed to make out a case for that historic document as a constitution of government.

Going beyond the Western Hemisphere to compete for first place in precedence among the written constitutions in the world, it is perhaps a debatable question whether the "Utrecht Union" should be called as Campbell says "a written constitution pure and simple." But the evidence does not seem to sustain his opinion. That instrument was conceived, framed and adopted as a treaty between provinces for their common defense. As such the concept was not new, nor was the procedure of putting an agreement of the kind in writing original. All compacts between nations, "since the invention of letters, have probably been reduced to that [the written] form," Professor Tucker says in "Lectures on Constitutional Law; for Law Classes at the University of Virginia," printed in 1843.

Justice Story does not notice the Utrecht Union as even a social compact, inasmuch as he writes of the Mayflower Compact "if not the first, it is the most authentic of social compacts," whereas there is of course no question as to the authenticity of the Utrecht Union.

Nor did Simeon E. Baldwin, who, while Chief Justice of the State, in an address delivered at the "Laying of the Corner-Stone of the Connecticut State Library and Supreme Court Building" in 1909, said: "Here, in this town of Hartford, in January, 1639, the people of Connecticut, under the leadership of Hooker, and Haynes and Ludlow—to name their work as the political philosophers of the next century would have named it—entered into a social compact. Of written constitutions, which have laid down, by authority of a people occupying a considerable territory, in orderly and systematic arrangement, the rules of their civil government, it was the first which the world has to show. . " And there is no doubt about the provinces that joined in the Union of Utrecht "occupying a considerable territory."

In fact, Campbell's book is the only place, so far as I have found, where the claim is made that the Utrecht Union was a Constitution.

Governor Baldwin's purpose, in his circumspect phrasing, apparently is to eliminate from the purview also instances of democratic government in Greece and Rome, and others, if there might be any, before that time, as Justice Story does when he writes of the Mayflower Compact: "if not the first," it was "at least the best authenticated case of an original contract for the establishment of a nation which is to be found in the annals of the world."

But proof is lacking that the reservation is imperative, for however much those ancient self-governing communities, of which we have knowledge, may have resembled the modern democracy in theory, in practice they were far removed from the government aimed at by the migrants to Connecticut from the Massachusetts-Bay in the government which they founded here. Charles Howard McIlwain, Eaton professor of the science of government in Harvard University, in "The Growth of Political Thought in the West," published 1932, says: " . . . whatever our form of government, Greece has furnished us the main outlines of our political science. And the fact that the details of government under modern conditions have become so different from those peculiar to Aristotle only serves to bring into stronger relief their essential identity." He quotes from John L. Myres in "The Political Ideas of the Greeks," concerning "The City-State of the Greeks and Romans": "'It is the unexhausted vitality, the permanent inspiration, the eternal humanity of Greek political ideas which gives them their claim to be restudied and restated in our own time.'"

"But the difference," says Professor McIlwain, "between the ancient and the modern setting of these central principles are no less important than the identity of the principles themselves. This ancient city-state, with its 5040 citizens as Plato would have limited it and a territory that Aristotle thought too large if you could not see across it," etc. Nevertheless, "It had some points . . . familiar to us in the New England 'town'," he says.

And in the preface to "The Rise of Modern Democracy" by Charles Borgeaud, C. H. Firth, M.A., Balliol College, Oxford, says: "Our modern conception of a democracy differs very widely from that of the ancients. Ancient democracies had no idea of universal suffrage, and instead of the rights of man recognized only the privileges of the citizen. For them the state was a city, and its political center was the spot where the sovereign assembly of citizens met to vote. Those who were not there were not represented, and the further the city state extended its borders, the fewer those citizens who could actually exercise their right of voting."

Concerning the attention given to "the subject of political obligation in some aspect or other," antecent to the classic examples, Professor McIlwain says: "The beginnings of this speculation, it may be, are to be found long before the Greeks were interested in it, and certainly there were before that time long ages of actual government and even of government recorded in historical documents, but it was among the Greeks apparently that we find the first faint trickle of that particular stream of speculative thought upon the nature of political relations which has been flowing ever since over the European world and over all the lands whose culture is in origin European."

It would seem, therefore, that without the danger of being convicted on the charge of disrespect to the ancient or prehistoric forms of government, one might say: The Fundamental Orders are the first written constitution in recorded history, framed for the purpose, that founded a government of the people by all the people.

Moreover,—for good measures,—inasmuch as Justice Story says the Mayflower Compact was, "if not the first, at least the best authenticated case of an original social contract for the establishment of a nation which is to be found in the annals of the world;" and, as an instrument accepted by the people establishing a government could not be a constitution without being a "social contract," or compact, then, according to the dictum of Justice Story, the Fundamental Orders were—as no one says there was another between 1620 and 1639—"if not the first at least the best authenticated" written constitution for the establishment of—"a nation," Justice Story says, then we can assuredly say—a self governing community, "in the annals of the world."

In this quest for some terse form of words that will describe the Fundamental Orders strictly in accordance with accredited facts, accepted by the best authorities, it has developed, that the Fundamental Orders, which for their form and content, or for their influence in subsequent civil affairs, have received attention by historians and political philosophers, so general as to be almost world-wide, constitute a document which the vastly greater weight of all available authority is in favor of calling a "Constitution, of civil government."

No difference of opinion among the authorities has been disclosed in admitting the essentially democratic spirit of the document, and agreement has appeared so general as to be almost unanimous that it was accepted by the vote of "all the people." If an extreme purist in the use of words should question the accuracy of these terms, he can find the two points discussed fully in "Story on the Constitution" and in an address by John Quincy Adams (a publicist of almost, if not quite, unparalleled official experience in American public life)—"a lecture", delivered in 1842, on "The Social Compact . . . . with remarks . . , concerning The Origin and Nature of Government." In this address, the expression, "all the people," is considered at much length, as it is in Justice Story's Commentaries; and in his address, where he says of the Constitution of the United States: "It is not Democracy,—nor Aristocracy, nor Monarchy, but a compound of them all, of which Democracy is the Oxygen or Vital air . . ," John Quincy Adams discusses and passes upon the appositeness of the term democracy in its familiar use as accepted here. An examination of those studies supports the general opinion that the Fundamental Orders gave expression to a spirit of democracy far in advance of the practice of any government before that time, and also that the document was in effect accepted by all the people.

This "instrument of civil government,"—a Constitution in fact;—which was sufficiently complete for its immediate purpose; which provided for future amendment; which was framed to establish a democracy; which was accepted by all the people, and did establish for them a democracy; and which was, "if not the first, the best authenticated" written constitution in the history of the world—the first in recorded history, —will continue to be called by enthusiasts, (as Dr. William DeLoss Love called it in his invaluable book, "The Colonial History of Hartford") and not without reason: "the first written constitution in the history of nations," leaving it to the critic or to the future to produce an earlier example.

Others more guarded, may say with a gesture of conscious restraint: "So far as we now know, it is the first written constitution in the history of nations."

Some will quote, as many have done in the past, John Fiske in "The Beginnings of New England": . . . "the first written Constitution known to history that created a government."

And the circumspect, who have had experience in the pitfalls of history, may choose to say with Judge Hamersley: " 'With a certain import', it is 'the first written constitution' " and then go on to define that import as Justice Baldwin did, each interpreting it in his own way.

But all persons, without fear of embarrassing exceptions by any protagonist for the Plymouth Colony, the Massachusetts Bay Colony, the United Netherlands, the Ancients or the Patriarchs, can use confidently the conclusion of Dr. Charles Borgeaud, so eminent as a political scientist, pronounced from the vantage point,—for impartial judgment,—of Geneva, in a letter which is now before me: "I wrote long ago that it [the instrument named The Fundamental Orders of Connecticut] was the first written constitution of modern democracy . . . I should write it again now after forty years of study and experience."

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

Renewed interest during this bicentennial and coming tercentenary season in historical and genealogical studies, as well as recognition and appreciation of the scope and value of this Society's library, are shown by the unusually large number of readers who have made use of our books and manuscripts during the year now closing. The readers during the year numbered 4145, an increase of ten per cent over the previous year and of twenty-two per cent over the number two years ago. Thus for two consecutive years their number has been greater than during any previous year in the Society's more than a century of existence, and for the first time the number has been in excess of 4000. This serves to emphasis the great and increasing need for more room for both books and readers and for increased funds to meet our growing needs.

A considerable number of publications relating to Connecticut have come to the library during the year. Among them may be mentioned Major Burpee's Century in Hartford, Dr. Barber's History of Simsbury, Bowen's History of Woodstock Vol. 4, Jacobus' History and Genealogies of Families of Old Fairfield, Vol. 3, Miss Johnson's Musical Memories of Hartford, Sesquicentennial of the Battle of Groton Heights, Miss Mix's Connecticut's Activities in the Wars of this Country, Mr. Middlebrook's Last Cruise of the Oliver Cromwell, Mr. Boyd's The Susquehannah Company, Mr. Goodenough's Clergy of Litchfield County, Diaries of Julia Cowles, West Avon Church Centennial, Windsor Church Tercentenary, History of Buckingham Church, Church and Parish of Greenfield, History of Waterbury Baptist Church, Salisbury an address, Studies in Colonial Connecticut Taxation.

Besides the current Hartford newspapers, we have added a file of the Norwich Aurora for 1841-1851, 1855-1858, 1861, 1863-1864 weekly, and 1860 daily; also an incomplete file of the Windsor Herald, 1926 to date. Several volumes of eighteenth century newspapers have been bound or rebound. Frequent use and for many different purposes is made of our newspaper files. The earlier issues are consulted for the historical and sometimes for the genealogical information they contain; the later issues for legal information and data on pending or contemplated suits, for stock market data and taxation purposes, for accounts of accidents both to learn of particular happenings and for statistical purposes, for accounts of sports and names of winners, for details of commencements and of essay contests, to name only a part of the purposes known to your librarian. Some readers are secretive and carefully refrain from letting the object of their search be known. One reader came from Philadelphia for the express purpose of consulting a volume of newspapers not to be found elsewhere.

From the author, R. Stanley Thompson, we received a copy of his "Congo, revue generale de la colonie belge," Bruxelles, 1931. Much of the material for this study was gathered from our manuscripts.

Other books of general interest added to the library include a reprint of the Massachusetts Laws of 1648; Winthrop Papers, vols. 1, 2, 1478 to 1630; Huntington Library bulletins; Archibald Robertson's Diaries; Florida Historical Society publications; Tercentenary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony; Virginia Campaign and Siege of Yorktown; Letters of Eleazar Wheelock's Indians; Letters of members of the Continental Congress, vol. 5, 1780-1781. To this series this society contributed many letters.

A scarce little volume of local interest recently secured is First Steps to Learning, by Abner Reed, the engraver, of East Windsor, printed in that town in 1800. The magazine Americana, which contains many articles that are of interest and value, is received from the publishers. Two volumes of Genealogical and Biographical Records of Connecticut families were received from the publishers, the States Historical Society. We are indebted to the publishers for both the Hartford Courant and Hartford Times, as issued.

To our Thomas Hooker collection has been added "The Inconsistencie of the Independent way", London, 1651, by Daniel Cowdrey containing a review of Hooker's "Survey of Church Discipline", "A Diatribe with Mr. Hooker" concerning infant baptism and a dispute with Rev. John Cotton. The fly leaf of the volume is inscribed "For Mr. Jno. Cotton from E. Hopkins" in Governor Hopkins' hand, also "Rev. Caleb Cushing's Book Janry 24th 1700/1" and "James Cushings 1752". The Cushings were father and son, the elder being son-in-law of Cotton, having married his daughter, the widow Elizabeth Alling.

Eight items have been added to our collection of eighteenth century Connecticut imprints. They are of 1767, 1768, 1770 (2), 1788, 1790, 1800, and one without date.

A volume of political pamphlets secured recently is of more than passing interest. It contains eight imprints by James Rivington, seven of them dated in 1774 and one in 1775; one by John Holt in 1775, and one of New York in 1774 without printer's name. It also includes three Philadelphia imprints of 1774, two of them by William and Thomas Bradford and one by James Humphreys, Jr. Further, there are a Boston imprint of 1776 by T. & J. Fleet; two New Haven imprints of 1776 and 1789, and a London imprint of 1770.

The following genealogies, 57 in all, have been added to the Library: Barlow, Beach, Belknap, Bennett, Bigg, Bixby, Bosworth, Bronson, Bullard (2), Burdick-Tucker-Pope, Cochran, Damon, Dayton, Dunning, Eames, Edwards, Epperson, Farwell, Fox, Grant, Griswold, Hatch, Hawes, Hawley, Hildreth, Hopkins, Huidekoper, Huntington, Hyde, Ide, Jones & Preble, Jones, Lawson, Lillibridge, Lindley, McCall & Tidwell, Maltby, Mason-Webster, Mitchell, Moer, Pattison & Frink, Perkins, Plumb, Preston, Quimby (2), Sandford, Selden, Sherwood, Skilton, Spoor, Stoughton, Strong, Tower, Underhill, Waterbury, Welch.

We have received from Miss Eveline W. Brainard of Haddam, Conn. and New York City, as a memorial of her parents, the late Cephas and Eveline (Hutchinson) Brainard, also of Haddam and New York, the gift of 150 volumes of poetry, all the work of Connecticut authors. Among those represented are Joel Barlow, Henry Howard Brownell, Timothy Dwight, Samuel G. Goodrich, James G. Percival, Lydia H. Sigourney and John Trumbull, besides many other less well known. The collection had been formed by Miss Brainard's father. From an anonymous source we have also acquired more than 100 volumes of American poetry, only a few of which are by Connecticut authors. Collections of books along general historical lines were given us by Prof. Waldo S. Pratt and by Mrs. John H. Barbour, both of Hartford, and Mr. Miles Smith of Hazardville presented books and pamphlets having to do with the Shakers.

The printed accessions during the year are about fifteen per cent more than last year. The gifts number 473 volumes, 843 pamphlets and 92 miscellaneous. The purchases were 215 volumes, 175 pamphlets and 44 miscellaneous. These make a total of 1842 items, exclusive of manuscripts. Seven volumes and three manuscripts were purchased with income from the Hoadly fund; 27 volumes from the Brainard fund income, and one lot of manuscripts with income from the Permanent General Fund.

It occasionally happens that donors of manuscripts prefer to remain anonymous and not to have their gifts appear in our printed report. This has occurred on several occasions during the past year. In consequence, a number of valuable accessions are not noted in the foregoing list. The manuscripts presented by Mrs. Hill are all articles written by her husband, the late Edwin A. Hill, or copies and compilations made by him. They form a valuable addition to our genealogical library. Another valuable addition is the collection of genealogical manuscripts received from Vice President Starr. These show the unfailing interest of one who has been an officer of the Society for forty-seven years—a longer period than any other person ever elected to membership. The volumes received from our late member, Mary K. Talcott, are of value, not only for their meteorological data covering sixty-five years, but for the many historical notes which they contain. The Denslow genealogy compiled and presented by Mr. Roberts is a marvelous work of above one thousand pages. The more than one hundred and fifty manuscripts given by Mrs. Edwards are from the office of the defunct Connecticut Magazine and its successor the Journal of American History. While the greater part of these articles have been printed in one or the other of these magazines, sometimes in a condensed form, the manuscripts are of interest and often can be more easily consulted than the printed copy. The vital records copied from the Courant by Mr. Nystrom form a valuable volume. Among the purchased manuscripts may be noted the letters written by Rev. Samuel Peters, this state's early historian; the diary of Elizur B. Belden during the Civil War, and the record of applicants for bounty lands because of service in the War of 1812 by residents of Middletown and vicinity in 1850-1858.

Through the courtesy of Everett E. Lord of Killingworth, we received from the late Adelbert Henry Stevens of that town a portrait of Rev. Asahel Nettleton (1783-1844), a native of Killingworth, a graduate of Yale and a revivalist for many years in Connecticut and adjoining states. From Mr. Lord himself, the Society received a copy of the first edition of the Hawaiian Bible, printed at Oahu in 1838. This volume had been given to Mr. Lord's grandmother by Titus Coan and contains a penciled notation by him. Mr. Coan, also a native of Killingworth, was a missionary on the Hawaiian Islands from 1835 until his death in 1882 and received more than 13,000 persons into his church there during that period.

From Mrs. Ellen Battell Stoeckel of Norfolk, widow of our former Vice-President, Carl Stoeckel, we have received a painted miniature portrait of Joseph Battell (1774-1841) in an oval metal frame or case with loop for suspension; also his gold watch, chain, key and fob. Also the silver knee buckles and silver extension bowed spectacles of Ammi Ruhamah Robbins (1740-1813). Each of these articles is inclosed in a white, blue lined leather case. Also a small piece of striped and figured silk from the wedding dress of Mrs. William Battell (Sarah Buckingham) (1753-1806).

A portrait of Thomas Clarke Brinsmade, who was for many years a physician in New Hartford, has been presented to the Society by his granddaughter, Miss Lucy C. Catlin of Jacksonville, Ill. He was born in 1769 and died in 1834. His wife was Elizabeth Goodwin of New Hartford. Their youngest child, Elizabeth, married Charles Catlin, father of the donor. The painter of this portrait is unknown.

Mrs. Mary H. Myers of Washington, D. C., on behalf of herself and other descendants, has given to the Society the "blanket" in which the children of General Israel Putnam were wrapped at their baptism. It is of white brocaded satin lined with plain white silk, which is now somewhat discolored by age. It measures about 33 by 48 inches. This forms a most interesting addition to our collection of Putnam family relics.

Hon. Newton C. Brainard has given us handsome photographs, enlarged from negatives exposed by him, of 70 Connecticut churches. These typify the best in the church architecture of the state a century and more ago.

Mrs. Carrie A. Fox of Mansfield presented a flag and a revolver from the old flagship "Hartford." These had been given many years ago to her husband, Horace Porter Fox, of the firm of Simons & Fox of Hartford, by Captain Lyman Smith of the Hartford police force. Unfortunately, their precise history had not been written down and was lost with the death of Mr. Fox in 1908.

In addition to routine duties in the library, Miss Kidder has been diligent in the matter of cataloging. Besides the accessions of the year, she has catalogued more than one hundred bound volumes of pamphlets and a considerable number of local histories and genealogies. Many of the latter had previously been listed, but not fully catalogued. The cataloging of the bound volumes makes easily available for the first time many hundreds of pamphlets, some of which have been in the library for a generation.

A volume entitled "The Two Putnams, Israel and Rufus," was issued during the year. Its publication was due to the interest of our member, William H. Putnam, a descendant of General Israel, who after reserving copies for himself, presented the balance of the edition to the Society. Proceeds from its sale will form a fund bearing Mr. Putnam's name. The volume contains the roll of Israel Putnam's company at the siege of Havana in 1764; the orderly book of the Connecticut regiment during the Havana expedition; the journal of Israel and two journals (the longer and the shorter) of Rufus on a voyage of exploration in 1772-1774 from New York along the coast and up the Mississippi River several hundred miles, for the purpose of there locating land believed to have been granted by the king to survivors of the Havana expedition and the seven years French and Indian War. An introductory sketch gives the history of the Military Adventures Company and their efforts to secure a grant of land on the Mississippi and to locate and colonize it.

In commemoration of the bicentennial of the birth of George Washington, the Society issued on that day "Letters of George Washington in the Library of the Connecticut Historical Society." This pamphlet, which comprises 53 pages and was issued in a small edition, contains twenty-two letters and one document in the nature of a proclamation.

The Society has also published in an extended form with the title "The Charter of Connecticut: a study" the paper read at the February meeting by your librarian. This paper, the result of long study of the subject by him, advances ideas and reaches conclusions differing materially from those hitherto accepted. It forms an octavo pamphlet of 72 pages.

The twenty-fourth volume of our series of "Collections" is printed except for the index, which is now being prepared. It contains early letters and documents heretofore unpublished relating to Connecticut from 1643 to 1709. The copies of these documents were made by our former president, Charles J. Hoadly from forty-five to seventy years ago and were presented to the Society by his brother, Mr. George E. Hoadley, our most generous benefactor. In recognition of them the volume has been designated as a "Hoadly Memorial." Another volume consisting of early church records is ready for the printer.

Respectfully submitted,

ALBERT C. BATES,
Librarian.

Resolve Incorporating

The Connecticut Historical Society.

Passed May, 1825; Renewed May, 1839;
Amended February, 1905, May, 1925, March, 1929, March, 1931.

Resolved by this Assembly, That John Trumbull, Thomas C. Brownell, Timothy Pitkin, John S. Peters, William W. Ellsworth, Thomas Day, Thomas Robins, Daniel Burhans, Thomas Hubbard, Isaac Toucey, Nathaniel S. Wheaton, George Sumner, Roger M. Sherman, William T. Williams, Martin Wells, Joseph Battell, William Cooley, Thomas H. Gallaudet, Thomas S. Williams, Eli Todd, Walter Mitchell, George W. Doane, Samuel B. Woodward, S. H. Huntington, Samuel W. Dana, James Gould, Samuel A. Foote, Nathan Johnson, Hawley Olmsted, Benjamin Trumbull, John Hall, and their associates and successors, be, and hereby are ordained, constituted and declared to be forever hereafter, a body corporate, by the name of The Connecticut Historical Society, and by that name, they, their associates and successors shall and may have perpetual succession; shall be capable of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, and also to purchase, receive, hold and convey any estate, real or personal, to an amount not exceeding four million dollars; and may have a common seal, and the same may alter at pleasure, may establish rules relative to the admission of future members; may ordain, establish, and put in execution such by-laws and regulations, not contrary to the provisions of this charter, or the laws of this State, as shall be deemed necessary for the government of said Corporation.

The Governor of this State, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Judges of the Superior Court, shall be ex officio members of the Society.

Said Corporation shall meet once a year for the choice of a President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and such other officers as may be designated from time to time by the by-laws of the Society.

The first meeting of the Society shall be holden at the State House in Hartford at such time as shall be designated by the Honorable John Trumbull, notice thereof being previously given in one or more newspapers printed in Hartford.

Provided, nevertheless, that this act of incorporation shall be subject to be revoked or altered, at the pleasure of the General Assembly.

By-Laws.

ARTICLE I. MEMBERS.

SECTION 1. The Society shall consist of active, corresponding, and honorary members. Only active members shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Corresponding and honorary members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or dues.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

SECTION 2. Every application for active membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicant, shall be supported by the written recommendation of at least one active member residing in the State of Connecticut, and shall be accompanied by the admission fee of three dollars. Such applications must be made upon blank forms furnished by the Society and shall contain a brief personal sketch of the applicant.

Every nomination for the election of corresponding or honorary members shall be based upon the application, in writing, of at least two active members, residing in the State of Connecticut, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

SECTION 3. No person shall be voted for as an active, corresponding, or honorary member until at least the meeting next succeeding the one at which his election is recommended by the Committee on Membership.

Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the Committee on Membership shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds of the members present.

SECTION 4. Active members shall pay as annual dues to the Society three dollars if they reside within the City of Hartford, and two dollars if they reside without said city. Any active member, not indebted to the Society for dues, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of fifty dollars.

The annual dues of members shall be payable in advance on the first day of May in each year. The payment of the annual dues shall constitute a condition for membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after they become due shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

ARTICLE II. OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be, a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, an Auditor, a Committee on Membership to consist of seven members, Committees on the Library, on Publication, on Finance, and on Monthly Papers, each to consist of three members. The Committee on Finance may with the Treasurer select any Trust Company that it may see fit, to assist the Treasurer in the work of his office. Only active members resident in the State of Connecticut shall be eligible to office.

The preceding officers and the chairmen of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

The presiding officer shall name the members of all special committees ordered raised at any meeting.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed by the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

SECTION 2. The President shall be chairman of the Standing Committee, and a member ex officio of the Committees on Membership, the Library, Publication and Finance; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and of the Standing Committee; and shall deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

The Recording Secretary shall call all meetings of the Society; shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; and shall keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and of the Standing Committee.

The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence in behalf of the Society.

The Treasurer shall be ex officio a member of the Committee on Finance; shall receive the admission fees, and report the names of the persons paying the same to the Recording Secretary; shall receive all other moneys due, and all donations or bequests of money made to the Society; shall pay to the order of the chairman of the Standing Committee such sums as may be required for the ordinary expenses of the Society and such as the Society or Standing Committee may otherwise direct to be paid; shall keep a true and faithful account of all moneys received and paid by him, and of the property and debts of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting, render an audited statement thereof.

The Librarian, under the direction of the Committee on the Library, shall arrange and have charge of all books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other articles belonging to or deposited in the rooms of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting of the Society, make a full report of his doings as Librarian during the past year, and of the condition of the Library.

The Auditor shall, prior to the annual meeting, examine the books, accounts and financial statements of the Treasurer, and compare the same with the vouchers and securities in the Treasurer's hands and certify the result of such examination to the Society.

SECTION 3. The Committee on Membership shall consider all applications for membership, and shall report to the Society such applications as said Committee may approve and recommend for admission. No applications for membership shall be considered or acted upon by said Committee during a meeting of the Society.

The Committee on the Library shall have the general oversight and management of the Library, manuscripts and other collections belonging to or deposited with the Society. Said Committee shall make purchases for the library to such an amount as may be appropriated from time to time for the purpose.

The Committee on Publication shall have the superintendence of all publications ordered by the Society. They shall, from time to time, report to the Society respecting the selection and arrangement of such papers, from the library of the Society or other sources, as are most suitable for publication in volumes of the Society's Collections.

The Committee on Monthly Papers shall provide for a paper to be read at each regular meeting of the Society.

The Standing Committee shall act generally in behalf of the Society, and shall fill all vacancies in any offices until the next regular meeting of the Society. Any five members of this Committee may constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a notice for a meeting of the Society shall be deemed a notice for a meeting of this Committee. Special meetings of this Committee may be called by the Recording Secretary by direction of the President.

ARTICLE III. MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. An annual meeting shall be held in the month of May, at such time as the Standing Committee shall appoint.

A regular meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month from October to May inclusive, unless otherwise ordered.

SECTION 2. Special meetings shall be called by direction of the President, or, in his absence, on the application of three active members to the Recording Secretary.

Notice of each meeting of the Society shall be sent by mail to each active member at least two days prior thereto. And at any meeting, duly called and notified, ten members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

ARTICLE IV. DONATIONS AND DEPOSITS.

All donations to and deposits with the Society shall be entered in books kept for that purpose.

No donations shall be exchanged or disposed of unless the Society have a duplicate of the same.

All deposits left with the Society shall be carefully preserved, and may at any time be taken away by the depositor in person, or delivered on his written order. But every deposit which has not been so reclaimed or withdrawn shall, after the decease of the depositor, be entered as a donation, and be deemed the property of the Society; unless, at the time of making the deposit, other conditions shall have been prescribed by the depositor.

ARTICLE V. LIBRARY.

The rooms, with all books, manuscripts, pictures, and articles belonging to or deposited with the Society, shall be under the immediate charge of the Librarian, acting under the direction of the Committee on the Library.

The library shall be open for the inspection of the public, and the examination of books and manuscripts, and transcription therefrom, at such time, and on such conditions, as shall be prescribed by the Committee on the Library; and no book or manuscript shall be taken from the rooms without a special vote of the Society, except by the Committee on Publication.

ARTICLE VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by its late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund, the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Committee on Publication, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

ARTICLE VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

President's Address.

[Owing to the illness of President Williams at the time of the annual meeting no address was prepared by him beyond the following memoranda, which were read for him in his absence.]

The membership of the Society has not increased during the year even with the admission of twenty-eight active members, owing to the resignation of a number of members, the dropping of several for non-payment of dues and the death of twelve. The present membership is five hundred and thirty-seven. This includes twenty-one ex-officio, four honorary and two corresponding in addition to the active members, thirty-one of whom are members for life.

We have lost the following members by death during the year:

Edward Denmore Robbins, a prominent attorney of New Haven and a vice-president of the society, admitted June 5, 1883, died October 7, 1932.

Robert Eston Phyfe of Hartford, an educator and speaker on historical topics, admitted March 3, 1908, died January 12, 1933.

Mrs. Edna Minor Rogers of Norwich, one of the best known genealogists in the State, admitted March 7, 1911, died April 12, 1933.

George Mitchelson of Tariffville, admitted November 14, 1916, a well known tobacco grower, died October 2, 1932.

George W. Bartholomew of West Hartford, author of a genealogy of the Bartholomew family in 1885, much interested in fruit culture, admitted December 7, 1920, died March 1, 1933.

Emerson G. Taylor of Hartford, well known in military circles and the author of several volumes, admitted December 7, 1920, died June 25, 1932.

Arthur Reed Kimball, a well known and highly respected citizen of Waterbury, admitted February 1, 1921, died January 27, 1933.

Philip Dibble Bunce, a well known Hartford physician, admitted May 3, 1921, died September 13, 1932.

Samuel Cary Evans of Riverside, one of the four members resident in California, admitted November 7, 1927, died December 31, 1932.

Allan Douglas Risteen of Hartford, widely known for his scientific attainments, admitted May 20, 1930, died December 30, 1932.

Leila May Church of Rockville, producer of many historical pageants, admitted May 26, 1931, died August 7, 1932.

George Wakeman Wheeler who as a judge of our courts was from February 28, 1893 an ex officio member and from May 26, 1931 an active member, died July 27, 1932.

At the first meeting of the Society during the year, an address, illustrated by lantern slides, upon "Early Connecticut Academies, their preceptors and pupils," was given by Reverend Sherrod Soule who showed illustrations and gave descriptions of a number of the old academies with pictures of their principals.

Reverend Arthur Adams at the November meeting read a paper on the "Order of the Purple Heart and its early Connecticut members." It was stated that this decoration, so far as is known, was granted to only three persons following the close of the Revolutionary War, all of whom were residents of Connecticut.

William E. Buckley at the December meeting read a paper upon "New England's first industrialist." It pertained to John Winthrop, the younger, and his varied industrial adventures, including the manufacture of salt and iron in quantities, and his interest in engineering, medicine, astronomy and government.

Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel read a charming paper upon "Oliver Ellsworth" at the January meeting, laying especial emphasis upon his political career and his wide recognition as a jurist.

At the February meeting Professor Charles M. Andrews read a paper upon "Our Town Beginnings, a commentary upon Johnston's Connecticut." The tenor of this paper was that, contrary to Johnston's ideas, the earliest settlers did not come to Connecticut as organized towns but were given their organization by the General Court after they had become located here.

"The throat distemper in New England in 1735-1740" was the topic of the paper read at the March meeting by Ernest Caulfield, M.D. The spread of the epidemic was traced and its excessive mortality, particularly among the children, was described. The title pages of sundry publications relating to it were shown upon the screen.

John Melvin Laird at the April meeting read a paper upon "Canada's tariff wall," tracing its history, an attempt at reciprocity and the desirability of a preferential tariff between Canada and the United States.

"Prudence Crandall" was the title of the paper read at the May meeting by Albert Child, Jr., of New York. It was an interesting presentation of the trials to which she was subjected by her endeavors to maintain in Canterbury a school for colored girls.

Miss May Atherton Leach of Philadelphia was chosen to represent this Society as its delegate at the meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science held in that city in April; and George McKenzie Roberts of New York was delegated as the Society's representative at the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of William the Silent, Prince of Orange, in the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas in that city on April twenty-third.

Due to the erection of the new Avery addition to the Atheneum group of buildings, the old Wadsworth house on Prospect Street was demolished. This made it necessary to remove a large number of objects belonging to the Society which were stored in the cellar of that building and in two rooms on the top floor. The books formerly stored there had previously been removed. The Athenæum arranged for space for the storage of these miscellaneous objects in one of its basement rooms in the original building.

Owing to the financial situation little advance has been made during the year toward the erection of a new building for the Society. Upon the suggestion of the Building Committee that it would welcome the submission of tentative plans for such a building, two architects have made sketches which they have submitted to the Committee. No action has been taken relative to these sketches or to the procuring of other or more detailed plans. An engineer's survey of our building lot showing elevations, building lines, sewer location and other details necessary to be considered before any building could be undertaken, has been obtained. The necessary markers showing the boundaries of the lot have also been placed.

George C. F. Williams.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Society:

Regretfully we again note the fact that no real progress has been made towards a new building with increased space for books, manuscripts, pictures and other collections, and with better facilities for the work of the Society. We continue to struggle along as best we can, still finding space by much crowding for the additions which are made from day to day to our library and other collections, although many objects can not now be placed on exhibition. Were the new building a reality, it seems certain that our collections in every line would speedily be greatly augmented.

General conditions during the past year are reflected in the falling off of our accessions which have decreased considerably as compared with those of the previous year. They number by gift 376 volumes, 318 pamphlets and 58 miscellaneous; by purchase 155 volumes, 253 pamphlets and 56 miscellaneous, a total of 531 volumes, 571 pamphlets and 114 miscellaneous and a grand total of 1216 printed items. Among these are 12 volumes credited to the Brainard, four volumes and seven pamphlets to the Hoadly, two volumes to the Boardman and one volume each to the Morris and Russell funds. One lot of manuscripts was purchased with income from the Edward B. Peck fund, supplemented by generous subscriptions from Vice-Presidents Bowen, Maxwell and White and from Morgan B. Brainard, and one manuscript with income of the Permanent General fund. All other purchases were made with income of the Robbins fund.

Our record of the number of readers using the library naturally varies from year to year. During the year now closing their number has been 3902, a decrease of above six per cent from the total of the previous year, but well above the average for the last five years.

Our only important publication during the year is the twenty-fourth volume of our series of "Collections," which was issued in July. As the copies of the documents which make up the volume were prepared by Charles J. Hoadly, LL.D., who at the time of his death in 1900 was President of this Society, and as the copies themselves were presented to us by his brother, George E. Hoadley, a former life member of the Society, it has seemed fitting to designate this volume a "Hoadly Memorial." It consists of "Early letters and documents relating to Connecticut, 1643-1709." Many of these contain important data relating to the history of the Colony. They include much correspondence between Connecticut as represented by her governor or governor and council with the English kings, the Commissioners of Trade and the Colony's agents in England. Relations with the Indians and the Indian wars are discussed and described and there is much about the charter and about boundary disputes. John Allyn, Benjamin Fletcher, Increase Mather, William Phipps, John Talcott and William Whiting are frequently mentioned.

A small booklet was recently issued in a limited edition with the title "Habuit Agnam Maria." It contains the poem beginning "Mary had a little lamb" translated into Latin verse in 1895 by our former honored President, Charles J. Hoadly, LL.D., and left in manuscript by him. Accompanying the translation is the poem in English and a few words anent Dr. Hoadly.

Our usual Annual Report, a pamphlet of eighty-one pages, was issued during the summer. Our President's annual address, in this pamphlet, is a careful study of the justification for designating the "Fundamental Orders" of 1639 as the "First Constitution of Connecticut."

The pamphlet on "The Charter of Connecticut," issued last year by the Society, appears to have aroused unexpected interest. We have received requests for copies from libraries and individuals in all parts of the country.

Our member, George Dudley Seymour, who is ever interested in the artistic, has had three of our paintings which had begun to show the ravages of time, rebacked and reconditioned, so that they now look as fresh as they probably did when they were first painted. They are portraits of Adam Beauchamp, sometime a resident of Hartford, who died as early as 1740; Mary Ledyard, sister of Col. William Ledyard and wife of Thomas Seymour, the first Mayor of Hartford, whose white dress now seems to show the sheen of its satin, and George Wyllys, Secretary of the Colony and State of Connecticut for sixty-six years. The reconditioning of this life-size portrait, the work of Ralph Earl, has brought out much detail not previously visible. At the instance of Mr. Seymour, several other portraits which were in very poor condition are now being reconditioned.

Twenty years ago an appendix to our Annual Report contained a list of 71 pictures belonging to the Society. A half dozen of these were either scenes or pastel portraits. The others were painted portraits chiefly of well-known Connecticut and Hartford residents now deceased. Since that time other painted portraits and miniatures and a few scenes have come to us. These, together with a few which for one reason or another were not included in the previous list, to the number of about sixty, have recently been carefully listed and marked for identification. The earlier list is so frequently consulted by visitors to our rooms that, should the Society approve, it would seem desirable to print this continuing list in a somewhat condensed form as an appendix to our forthcoming annual report.

A handsome silver spout cup or tea pot six inches in height, engraved with a coat-of-arms, perhaps of the Dennie family, and with the letters E. D. for Eunice Dennie (1729-1805) who married Thaddeus Burr of Fairfield in 1759, has been given us by the Misses Sarah and Joanna Williams of New York. It is said that this cup had been loaned to some one who was ill and so escaped loss or destruction when the Burr house was pillaged during the British raid on Fairfield. The Misses Williams also presented some elaborately corded and embroidered linen chair covers made by the same Eunice Dennie Burr.

From the George Washington Bicentennial Commission we received the large bronze medal officially struck at the U. S. mint for the Commission. A small U. S. flag which at the time of the Civil War flew over the Naval Academy Hospital at Annapolis to which northern soldiers were brought when exchanged from southern prisons, was given us by Mrs. Maria W. Loader of Manilla, P. I. Mrs. Loader's mother, Maria Hall of Washington, D. C., later Mrs. L. Richards of Unionville, was a nurse at that hospital and acquired the flag. From Mrs. Hepsia Collier Bowden of New Haven we have received two beautifully embroidered linen pillow slips woven about a century ago in Windham from flax grown in that town.

A number of copies of "The Revolutionary War Letters of Captain Roger Welles," recently published by Edwin Stanley Welles, have been presented to the Society by him. Proceeds from the sale of these go to increase the fund established by Mr. Welles a few years since.

The following manuscripts have been received during the year:

A number of these manuscript additions are worthy of more than a passing notice. Such are copies of the inscriptions from more than one hundred Connecticut cemeteries received from Mr. Barbour; the copies of early New London records from Mrs. Butler; the Taylor genealogy from Mr. Pollock; the historical notes on Cheshire from Mrs. Stoddard; and the correspondence, journal and other papers of Benjamin Trumbull, which were purchased. There has also been received as a deposit the correspondence of Gideon Tomlinson, sometime governor of the state, consisting of about 3500 letters to him and drafts of his replies. As on some previous years, a number of manuscripts have been received from donors who do not care to have their gifts appear in our printed report.

The First Church of Hartford celebrated the tercentenary of its founding last October. On that occasion the Society made an exhibit of historical material relating to the church and its pastors. This included a letter and other writings of Thomas Hooker, shorthand notes of sermons preached by him, books of accounts for building the meeting house of 1739 with bills for repairs, for window glass, for candles, for white washing and for paving in front of the building, early society rate bill, statements of funds of the society, bill for teaching psalmody, records in handwriting of John Whiting, the third pastor, bills for payment of Edward Dorr the eighth pastor and letter of Nathan Strong the ninth pastor. More than forty different titles and editions of printed works by Thomas Hooker were shown as well as works of several later pastors. A wide board from the first meeting house erected about 1640 was shown and a fragment from the old church bell showing the figures 1729, the date of its casting.

Seventeen items have been added to our unrivaled collection of eighteenth century Connecticut imprints. They are of the years (1766), 1767, (1767-8), 1768 (2), 1769 (2), 1770, 1772, 1780, 1792, 1793, 1794, 1795 (imperfect), 1797, 1799, 1800.

Miss Alice Welles of New York, daughter of our late member Edgar T. Welles has presented three paintings to the Society. Two of them are portraits of her great-grandparents Charles Brainard (1786-1850) and his wife, Sally (Haskell) Brainard (1787-) of Hartford. Mr. Brainard was an iron merchant of the firm of Ward, Bartholomew & Brainard, later C. Brainard & Son. His residence at one time was where the Morgan Memorial now stands. The third portrait is that of Sarah Matilda Brainard (1844-1865) of Hartford, granddaughter of Charles and daughter of Charles H., painted by George F. Wright.

Some years since Miss Harriet Gilman of New Haven presented to the Society portraits of her parents, James Bidwell Gilman (1815-1863) and Jane Elizabeth (Bull) Gilman (1819-1899), both sometime residents of Hartford, with the condition that they should not be exhibited for a certain number of years. This period having elapsed, the two portraits have now been removed from their packing boxes, and that of Mrs. Gilman has been reconditioned. Both portraits were painted by Jared B. Flagg.

In 1897 Catharine Louisa (Kate L.) Hayden of Hartford placed with the Society three portraits, also painted by Jared B. Flagg, with a like request that they should not be at once exhibited. These have been brought to the light during the year. There are two portraits of Miss Hayden's aunt, Rebecca Porter Conner (1824-1843) of Hartford, one painted in 1842, the other after her death from a daguerreotype by J. D. Willard. The other portrait is of Rebecca's brother, Charles Lavalette Conner (1831-1847), painted from a daguerreotype taken shortly before his death.

More and more the limited space for the Society's possessions becomes crowded and the difficulty of finding a place for our new accessions increases. It seems not improbable that it will become necessary to close our exhibition hall to the public and to place temporary shelving in that room for the accommodation of books. This would necessitate the holding of meetings and the reading of papers in our library room.

Respectfully submitted,

ALBERT C. BATES,
Librarian.

List of Paintings

Belonging to the

Connecticut Historical Society

This list is additional to the list published with the Annual Report of May, 1902.

72. Jonathan and Faith Trumbull.

He born 1710, died 1785 and his wife Faith born 1718, died 1780. She was daughter of Rev. John Robinson of Duxbury, Mass. He was a native of Lebanon and held many important offices in his town and in the Colony including those of Judge of the Windham County Court, Judge of the Superior Court, Chief-Justice of the Supreme Court, Deputy-Governor and Governor of Connecticut from 1770 to 1783 in addition to a business and merchandising career. He was called "Brother Jonathan" by General Washington.

An early painting by their son John Trumbull.

Was the Society's property as early as 1876 and may have belonged to the Society as early as 1840.

73. Oliver Wolcott, Jr.

Born 1760, died 1833; a graduate of Yale College in 1778; Secretary of the United States Treasury; Governor of Connecticut, 1817-1827.

Painted by Gilbert Stuart.

Deposited April, 1849 by his daughter, Mrs. Laura (Wolcott) Gibbs, and her son George Gibbs, and later became the property of the Society.

74. Joel Hawes, D.D.

Born 1789, died 1867; from 1817 until his death was pastor of the First Church in Hartford.

Probably the work of Philip Hewins, who is known to have painted a portrait of Dr. Hawes not long after 1834.

Was in the possession of the Society as early as 1845.

75. Hartford in 1824.

View of the city showing the Little River in the foreground and numerous buildings, including the First Church, in the background.

Presented by Mrs. Harriet Newell (Phelps) Pond (Mrs. Charles Floyer Pond) of Hartford previous to 1876, perhaps about 1872 when her name disappears from the Hartford directory.

76. Rebecca Porter Conner.

Born 1824, died 1843; daughter of William and Rebecca (Porter) Conner of Hartford.

Painted by Jared Bradley Flagg after the subject's death from a daguerreotype by J. D. Willard of Hartford.

Received Feb. 2, 1897 from Kate L. Hayden of Hartford, niece of the subject, as a deposit, later becoming the property of the Society.

77. Rebecca Porter Conner.

Another portrait of the same subject as No. 76.

Painted by Jared Bradley Flagg in 1842.

Received Feb. 2, 1897 from Kate L. Hayden of Hartford, niece of the subject, as a deposit, later becoming the property of the Society.

78. Charles Lavalette Conner.

Born 1831, died 1847; son of William and Rebecca (Porter) Conner of Hartford.

Painted by Jared Bradley Flagg from a daguerreotype taken shortly before the subject's death.

Received Feb. 2, 1897 from Kate L. Hayden of Hartford, niece of the subject, as a deposit, later becoming the property of the Society.

79. Adoration of the Magi.

Painted on a wooden panel. "The picture was brought to this country by an officer of Rochambeau's army."

Presented May 11, 1860 by Rev. Edward J. O'Brien of New Haven and brought to the Society by Judge Thomas McManus of Hartford, whose wife was a niece of O'Brien.

80. The Annunciation.

"Copy of the miraculous painting in the Church of the Annunciation at Florence. It is said that it was begun by a monk and finished by an angel while he was asleep."

Presented by Samuel G. Goodrich, who may have obtained it when he was in Florence in the autumn of 1854.

81. Anthony Van Dyck.

Born 1599, died 1641; famous Flemish artist. Evidently a copy with some changes of his self portrait.

82. James Bidwell Gilman.

Born 1815, died 1863; a druggist and afterwards a looking-glass maker in Hartford, removing later to Alabama.

Painted by Jared Bradley Flagg in 1840.

Deposited April, 1901 by his daughter, Harriet Gilman of New Haven, later becoming the property of the Society.

83. Jane Elizabeth (Bull) Gilman.

Born 1819, died 1899; wife of James Bidwell Gilman, No. 82.

Painted by Jared Bradley Flagg in 1844.

Deposited April, 1901 by his daughter, Harriet Gilman of New Haven, later becoming the property of the Society.

84. Andrew Jackson.

Born 1767, died 1845; seventh President of the United States, 1829-1837.

Painted by Philip Hewins in 1833 while Jackson was making a trip through New England.

Presented by Francis H. Parker of Hartford March, 1903.

85. Royal Ralph Hinman.

Born 1785, died 1868; an attorney in his native town of Roxbury, Conn.; Secretary of the State; author of several historical works; member of the Connecticut Historical Society from 1839.

Painted by Ralph Earl in 1792.

Presented in the summer of 1908 by his grandson, William A. Burr of West Hartford.

89. Rebecca (Stillman) Burr.

Born 1747, died 1831; wife of Samuel Burr of Hartford, No. 88.

Painted by Ralph Earl.

Presented in the summer of 1908 by her grandson, William A. Burr of West Hartford.

90. Lucy Ruggles Howe.

Born 1813, died 1835; daughter of Lewis and Sarah (Robinson) Howe of Hardwick, Mass. Mrs. Howe married as her second husband

Hon. John M. Niles of Hartford, who may have adopted Miss Howe, as her gravestone calls her Lucy Ruggles Howe Niles.

Painted by Philip Hewins in 1835.

Presented February, 1911 by her relative, Mrs. Lucy (Howe) Bowdoin (Mrs. Richard Bowdoin) of Salem, Mass., through the influence of Mrs. Charles H. Smith of Hartford.

91. Charter Oak.

Small painting on wood showing the Wyllys house, then the Bulkeley house, in the background.

Painted by Henry Bryant.

Presented December, 1914 by Isabel Winthrop Stuart of Hartford and Mrs. Grace (Stuart) Brocklesby of Hampton, N. H., daughters of Isaac W. Stuart, owner of the property on which the Charter Oak tree stood at the time it fell.

92. Stephen Bulkeley.

Born 1768, died 1840; a merchant of Hartford and sometime owner of the property on which the Charter Oak tree stood.

Said to have been painted by Ralph Earl.

Presented December, 1914 by Isabel Winthrop Stuart of Hartford and Mrs. Grace (Stuart) Brocklesby of Hampton, N. H., daughters of Isaac W. Stuart, whose wife was Caroline Bulkeley daughter of the subject.

93. Isaac Bliss House.

He was born 1760, died 1845; was a tanner in Hartford. The house stood on what is now Bushnell Park a few rods southwest of the Memorial Arch.

Painted by Joseph Ropes of Hartford in 1854.

Presented January, 1914 by Charlotte Tyler of Hartford, granddaughter of Isaac Bliss.

94. Seth Howard Clark.

Born 1814, died 1888; a skillful wood engraver of Hartford.

Believed to have been painted about 1834 by a local artist.

Presented October, 1918 by his son, Fred Spencer Clark of New Haven.

95. Landing of the Atlantic Telegraph Cable.

This memorable event occurred at Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, August 5, 1858.

Painted by George Whiting Flagg for James Brewster of New Haven, great-grandfather of William R. C. Corson of Hartford, to whom it came from the estate of his uncle, James Brewster Cone of Hartford.

Presented March, 1919 by William R. C. Corson of Hartford.

96. Timothy Hall.

Born 1758, died 1844; a physician in East Hartford; a surgeon in the army during the Revolution and witnessed the execution of Major André.

Resolve Incorporating

The Connecticut Historical Society.

Passed May, 1825; Renewed May, 1839;
Amended February, 1905, May, 1923, March, 1929, March, 1931.

Resolved by this Assembly, That John Trumbull, Thomas C. Brownell, Timothy Pitkin, John S. Peters, William W. Ellsworth, Thomas Day, Thomas Robins, Daniel Burhans, Thomas Hubbard, Isaac Toucey, Nathaniel S. Wheaton, George Sumner, Roger M. Sherman, William T. Williams, Martin Wells, Joseph Battell, William Cooley, Thomas H. Gallaudet, Thomas S. Williams, Eli Todd, Walter Mitchell, George W. Doane, Samuel B. Woodward, S. H. Huntington, Samuel W. Dana, James Gould, Samuel A. Foote, Nathan Johnson, Hawley Olmsted, Benjamin Trumbull, John Hall, and their associates and successors, be, and hereby are ordained, constituted and declared to be forever hereafter, a body corporate, by the name of The Connecticut Historical Society, and by that name, they, their associates and successors shall and may have perpetual succession; shall be capable of suing and being sued, pleading and being impleaded, and also to purchase, receive, hold and convey any estate, real or personal, to an amount not exceeding four million dollars; and may have a common seal, and the same may alter at pleasure, may establish rules relative to the admission of future members; may ordain, establish, and put in execution such by-laws and regulations, not contrary to the provisions of this charter, or the laws of this State, as shall be deemed necessary for the government of said Corporation.

The Governor of this State, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Judges of the Superior Court, shall be ex officio members of the Society.

Said Corporation shall meet once a year for the choice of a President, Vice-President, Corresponding Secretary, Recording Secretary, Treasurer, and such other officers as may be designated from time to time by the by-laws of the Society.

The first meeting of the Society shall be holden at the State House in Hartford at such time as shall be designated by the Honorable John Trumbull, notice thereof being previously given in one or more newspapers printed in Hartford.

Provided, nevertheless, that this act of incorporation shall be subject to be revoked or altered, at the pleasure of the General Assembly.

By-Laws.

ARTICLE I. MEMBERS.

SECTION 1. The Society shall consist of active, corresponding, and honorary members. Only active members shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Corresponding and honorary members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or dues.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

SECTION 2. Every application for active membership shall be in writing, signed by the applicant, shall be supported by the written recommendation of at least one active member residing in the State of Connecticut, and shall be accompanied by the admission fee of three dollars. Such applications must be made upon blank forms furnished by the Society and shall contain a brief personal sketch of the applicant.

Every nomination for the election of corresponding or honorary members shall be based upon the application, in writing, of at least two active members, residing in the State of Connecticut, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

SECTION 3. No person shall be voted for as an active, corresponding, or honorary member until at least the meeting next succeeding the one at which his election is recommended by the Committee on Membership.

Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the Committee on Membership shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds of the members present.

SECTION 4. Active members shall pay as annual dues to the Society three dollars if they reside within the City of Hartford, and two dollars if they reside without said city. Any active member, not indebted to the Society for dues, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of fifty dollars.

The annual dues of members shall be payable in advance on the first day of May in each year. The payment of the annual dues shall constitute a condition for membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after they become due shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

ARTICLE II. OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be, a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, an Auditor, a Committee on Membership to consist of seven members, Committees on the Library, on Publication, on Finance, and on Monthly Papers, each to consist of three members. The Committee on Finance may with the Treasurer select any Trust Company that it may see fit, to assist the Treasurer in the work of his office. Only active members resident in the State of Connecticut shall be eligible to office.

The preceding officers and the chairmen of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

The presiding officer shall name the members of all special committees ordered raised at any meeting.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed by the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

SECTION 2. The President shall be chairman of the Standing Committee, and a member ex officio of the Committees on Membership, the Library, Publication and Finance; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and of the Standing Committee; and shall deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

The Recording Secretary shall call all meetings of the Society; shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; and shall keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and of the Standing Committee.

The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence in behalf of the Society.

The Treasurer shall be ex officio a member of the Committee on Finance; shall receive the admission fees, and report the names of the persons paying the same to the Recording Secretary; shall receive all other moneys due, and all donations or bequests of money made to the Society; shall pay to the order of the chairman of the Standing Committee such sums as may be required for the ordinary expenses of the Society and such as the Society or Standing Committee may otherwise direct to be paid; shall keep a true and faithful account of all moneys received and paid by him, and of the property and debts of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting, render an audited statement thereof.

The Librarian, under the direction of the Committee on the Library, shall arrange and have charge of all books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other articles belonging to or deposited in the rooms of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting of the Society, make a full report of his doings as Librarian during the past year, and of the condition of the Library.

The Auditor shall, prior to the annual meeting, examine the books, accounts and financial statements of the Treasurer, and compare the same with the vouchers and securities in the Treasurer's hands and certify the result of such examination to the Society.

SECTION 3. The Committee on Membership shall consider all applications for membership, and shall report to the Society such applications as said Committee may approve and recommend for admission. No applications for membership shall be considered or acted upon by said Committee during a meeting of the Society.

The Committee on the Library shall have the general oversight and management of the Library, manuscripts and other collections belonging to or deposited with the Society. Said Committee shall make purchases for the library to such an amount as may be appropriated from time to time for the purpose.

The Committee on Publication shall have the superintendence of all publications ordered by the Society. They shall, from time to time, report to the Society respecting the selection and arrangement of such papers, from the library of the Society or other sources, as are most suitable for publication in volumes of the Society's Collections.

The Committee on Monthly Papers shall provide for a paper to be read at each regular meeting of the Society.

The Standing Committee shall act generally in behalf of the Society, and shall fill all vacancies in any offices until the next regular meeting of the Society. Any five members of this Committee may constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a notice for a meeting of the Society shall be deemed a notice for a meeting of this Committee. Special meetings of this Committee may be called by the Recording Secretary by direction of the President.

ARTICLE III. MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. An annual meeting shall be held in the month of May, at such time as the Standing Committee shall appoint.

A regular meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month from October to May inclusive, unless otherwise ordered.

SECTION 2. Special meetings shall be called by direction of the President, or, in his absence, on the application of three active members to the Recording Secretary.

Notice of each meeting of the Society shall be sent by mail to each active member at least two days prior thereto. And at any meeting, duly called and notified, ten members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

ARTICLE IV. DONATIONS AND DEPOSITS.

All donations to and deposits with the Society shall be entered in books kept for that purpose.

No donations shall be exchanged or disposed of unless the Society have a duplicate of the same.

All deposits left with the Society shall be carefully preserved, and may at any time be taken away by the depositor in person, or delivered on his written order. But every deposit which has not been so reclaimed or withdrawn shall, after the decease of the depositor, be entered as a donation, and be deemed the property of the Society; unless, at the time of making the deposit, other conditions shall have been prescribed by the depositor.

ARTICLE V. LIBRARY.

The rooms, with all books, manuscripts, pictures, and articles belonging to or deposited with the Society, shall be under the immediate charge of the Librarian, acting under the direction of the Committee on the Library.

The library shall be open for the inspection of the public, and the examination of books and manuscripts, and transcription therefrom, at such time, and on such conditions, as shall be prescribed by the Committee on the Library; and no book or manuscript shall be taken from the rooms without a special vote of the Society, except by the Committee on Publication.

ARTICLE VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by its late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund, the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Committee on Publication, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

ARTICLE VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

President's Address.

The year which has just closed has been one of more than usual change. In the death of our President the Society has lost a true friend and an able executive. He wisely directed our fortunes during periods which called for much more than average ability.

Of lesser importance are the changes which are to be made in the methods of our accounting, and in the form of the Treasurer's Report. They will effect a modernization which is much needed. By consolidating the investments of the various trust funds we will insure these funds against possible crippling loss, as well as making the investment of small amounts more advantageous.

Our present membership is five hundred and fifty-one (551), of which thirty-seven (37) were admitted during the past year. Of the total membership five hundred and twenty-four (524) are active members, including thirty-three (33) who are members for life; twenty-one (21) ex officio; four (4) honorary; and two (2) corresponding members. During the year thirteen (13) have died, eight (8) have resigned their membership and several have been dropped from our roll.

May I here point out some of the advantages which would accrue to this Society, and in some degree to the public at large, from a material increase in our membership. A much greater interest in the work which is being done by the Society would follow, and the additional revenue would enable us to do still more in collecting and preserving material which bears on the history of our State, and on the lives of those men and women who have played their part in the making of this history. Doubtless there are many who, if the matter was suggested to them, would be glad to join us.

In our membership list, the eastern and western sections of the State have too small a representation. This should not be. This Society, as its name indicates, is more than a local one.

it is the Historical Society which embraces the entire State of Connecticut. As such we desire to serve, to the best of our ability, all sections of the State, and we hope for aid and coöperation from such quarters.

In continuance of this policy of service in the past, and to give it further vitality, I recommend the establishing of a committee of unlimited number, to be composed of members and non-members of the Society from all sections of the State. The purpose of this committee would be to acquaint the public with the work and the objects of the Society, and to endeavor to find from it new ways in which we might be helpful.

During the year we have lost the following members by death:

Warren Richard Briggs, of Stratford, Connecticut, died there May 30, 1933. He was born June 6, 1850 in Malden, Massachusetts, the son of Elijah E. and Mary J. (Smith) Briggs. He held a position of great prominence as an architect in Bridgeport, where he designed many of the more important buildings, including the Fairfield County Court House, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Station, the City Savings Bank building and the former United Illuminating Company building. His wife was Eliza H. Beach. He was admitted to this Society, April 7, 1903.

Louis Henry Cornish, who was admitted May 26, 1931, died at his home in Stamford, Connecticut, October 30, 1933. He was born May 23, 1855 in Hartford, Connecticut, the son of Grove H. Cornish and Electa (Adams) Cornish. A genealogist and historian, also newspaper publisher, having been the Editor of "The Spirit of '76." He married Mary Nichols.

Miss Alice Maria Gay, a life member of this Society, who was admitted March 3, 1896, died at her home in Hartford, Connecticut, January 14, 1934. Her parents were William Pease and Harriet (Clark) Gay of East Granby, Connecticut, where she was born February 27, 1866. She was a well known genealogist, and had recently published a genealogy of the Drake family. For some twenty-five years she served the Society as Assistant to its Librarian, as occasion called for.

William Hutchins Hall, admitted October 3, 1905, was for many years connected with the public school system of West Hartford, Connecticut, and filled the office of Superintendent of Schools at the time of his death. He was born November 25, 1845 in West Hartford, the son of Edwin Hall and Lucy (Whiton) Hall and died there March 23, 1934. His wife was Ellen S. Hamilton. Among his writings is a History of the Town of West Hartford.

William Joseph Hickmott, a resident of West Hartford, Connecticut, who was admitted November 14, 1922, died at his home there November 14, 1933. He was born August 12, 1851 in Middletown, Connecticut, a son of Stephen and Julia (Robinson) Hickmott. His business career was connected with life insurance, from which he had retired. A lover of the beautiful, he was an authority on photography and on early American pottery, especially that of Bennington, Vermont, also on old furniture. His wife, who was Hattie Safford, survives him.

Herman Julius Maercklein, of Hartford, Connecticut, where he was born December 30, 1856, the son of Herman A. W. Maercklein and Julie (Moll) Maercklein, died there April 30, 1933. He was a banker by profession. His wife, whose maiden name was Alice Crane, survives him. He became a member of the Society May 3, 1921.

Frank Denison Miner, of Jersey City, New Jersey, was born March 14, 1854, admitted November 4, 1930 and died February 13, 1934. He was a retired lumber merchant and a direct descendant of the well known diarists Thomas and Manasseh Miner of Stonington, Conn.

Frank Isaac Prentice, admitted November 6, 1917, died in Hartford, Connecticut, April 2, 1934. His home was in Hartford where he was born November 24, 1862, his parents being General Charles H. Prentice and Julia (Hills) Prentice. He passed through the different positions in one of our leading savings banks, and at the time of his death was Vice President and Secretary of that institution. He married Mary Merrill who survives him.

William Cornell Scheide, of Hartford, Connecticut, who was admitted March 1, 1927, died in Hartford, May 6, 1934. He was born in St. Louis, Missouri, July 10, 1871, the son of Dr. Hamilton Augustus and Virginia (Cornell) Scheide. For many years he has been nationally known in insurance circles, at one time owning the largest reinsurance business in the United States. He married the late Isabelle Cutter of San Francisco, California.

Andrew Jackson Sloper, a prominent banker and director in many business organizations in New Britain, Connecticut, died at his home there June 2, 1933. He was born July 14, 1849 in Southington, Connecticut, the son of Lambert and Emma (Barnes) Sloper. Admitted a member of the Society December 7, 1920. His first wife was Ella Thomson, and the second, who was Myra Wilcox, survives him.

Herbert Humphrey White of Hartford, Connecticut, a man keenly interested in all good works and in his fellow man, died in Hartford January 6, 1934. His parents, who were Francis A. White and Cornelia A. (Humphrey) White, resided in Hartford where he was born July 3, 1858. For some years before his death he was Treasurer of one of our local insurance companies and held many other positions of trust. Admitted January 5, 1897. His second wife, who was Alice W. Traver, survives him.

Mrs. Jeannette Crosby (Hunt) Williams, the wife of George Goodwin Williams of Farmington, Connecticut, died at her home there June 19, 1933. She was born in Hartford, Connecticut on May 30, 1863, a daughter of Dr. Ebenezer Kingsbury and Mary (Crosby) Hunt. She was admitted December 6, 1927.

Dr. George Clinton Fairchild Williams. It is altogether fitting that the following admirably worded resolution, passed at a meeting of this Society, held January 2, 1934, should here be made a part of this report.

"Dr. George Clinton Fairchild Williams, President "of our Society, died at his home in Hartford on No- "vember 15th last. Our minute would be too long if "we attempted to state all of his interests and accom- "plishments. The number and variety of offices held "by him in corporations and societies, business, chari- "table and public, show that the main purpose of his "life was humanitarian—using the word in its broad "meaning and as embracing the arts, sciences, letters "and public welfare. He was a business man and yet "a scholar; an executive yet a master of detail. He "delighted in historical research but his vision and plans "were all for the future.

"He was born in Cheshire on February 26, 1857. "His parents were Dr. William Cook and Lucinda "(Fairchild) Williams. He took honors in mathe- "matics and classics at the Episcopal Academy of Con- "necticut and entered the Sheffield Scientific School "with the Class of 1878; turned to medicine and gradu- "ated from the Medical Department of New York "University in February 1878 with the class honor. "After engaging in hospital work in New York and "practicing his profession in Cheshire, he moved to "Hartford in 1887, entered business and lived here "thereafter.

"Dr. Williams' love for history was native. It was "stimulated by traditions of his family and home. He "soon became a collector of historical documents and "manuscripts, especially those relating to Connecticut, "the Revolutionary War and the formation of the "government of the United States. As between the "two styles of historical writing, viz: that of plain and "proved fact and the so-called romantic school, his "training as a scholar compelled him to adhere to the "former. His tastes did not bar his imagination from "playing with the romantic as well.

"He became a member of our Society November 7, "1905. He served as Vice President from May, 1916 "to May, 1919. He was elected President in the latter "year, served until May, 1922 and was again our Presi- "dent from May, 1926 until his death.

"His poise as a presiding officer of this Society, his "careful investigation and record of its past and the "plans which he made and in part completed for its "future home and activities, we all know. He left our "midst at the very time when he was most needed as "directing head of the Tercentenary Commission of the "State. His place in any one or more of the varied and

"various offices to which he was called will be hard to "fill. He was earnest in every work to which he put "his hand and graced its doing with wit, personal charm "and friendliness. His touch on human lives and inter-"ests, while light and gentle, never blinded us to his "fundamental earnestness.

"He followed the good; he searched for truth; he "loved the beautiful—with an energy that was earnest "and a spirit that was sincere."

The papers read at the monthly meetings of the Society during the past year have been of especial interest.

At the October meeting, Charles Rufus Harte of New Haven, spoke on the "Farmington Canal." His lecture was illustrated with slides. The formation of the Canal Company was described, and the course of the canal traced, including a floating tow-path across one of the Southwick ponds. Details of the amount of freight carried were given, and an account of the discontinuance of the canal because paralleled by a railroad. Mr. Harte had walked nearly the entire length of the canal, and his pictures were of interest.

November 7th, the Rev. Clair F. Luther of Amherst, Massachusetts, gave a most interesting talk on "The Hadley Chest" concerning which he is the recognized authority. The essential features of the chests were pointed out, and by deduction the probable name of their maker, Ichabod Allis of Hadley, was given. The speaker had located one hunded and five of these chests. Through the courtesy of the Wadsworth Atheneum a specimen was exhibited to those present.

December 5th, Professor Odell Shepard, Ph.D., Litt.D., of Trinity College, read an original poem entitled "The Bow and the Arrow." This poem, epic in style and most charmingly written, pictured the troubles of the non-conformists in England, their flight to Holland, their later stormy voyage across the Atlantic, their settlement on the Massachusetts coast, their emigration to Connecticut and the founding under the leadership of Thomas Hooker of the river towns, and the later westward emigration of their descendants.

January 2nd, the Rev. Charles L. Biggs of Guilford, Connecticut, who is much interested in the influence of the history of that town upon Governor William Leete, addressed the Society. He sketched the Governor's career, quoting from the few writings by him that have been preserved, particularly his letters at the time of the Indian Wars. He showed the prominence of Leete's position in the town of Guilford, the New Haven Colony and later the Colony of Connecticut, both of which colonies he served as Governor.

February 13th, Mrs. Mabel Roberts Moore of Hartford and Winsted, spoke on "Early Clock Makers of Connecticut." Beginning with the earliest mentioned clocks and clock making, she traced the history of the industry down to the middle of the nineteenth century, giving particular accounts of well known makers and of their product.

March 6th, Mr. R. V. Coleman of Westport, Connecticut, read a paper on "Roger Ludlow in Chancery." After reciting the brief facts which are known of Ludlow's life, he read a long document recently discovered by him among the Chancery proceedings in the Public Record Office in London, England. This document details many facts previously unknown concerning Ludlow and his immediate relatives. The paper showed a careful study of Ludlow's life.

April 3rd, Roland Mather Hooker of New Haven, Connecticut, spoke upon "The Spanish Ship Case." His paper gave a detailed account of the troubles which ensued from the bringing of the Spanish ship "St. Joseph and St. Helena" in distress into New London harbor in 1751. It showed the difficulties in which the officials of the vessel became involved with the Connecticut authorities and how it caused the defeat of Roger Wolcott for re-election as Governor.

May 1st, a paper on "Caricatures of the Stamp Act and of the American Revolution" was read by Dr. R. T. H. Halsey of New York City. The lecture was illustrated with excellent lantern slides mostly reproducing cartoons which appeared in England during the time of the Revolutionary War. From these it was evident that there existed in the Mother Country a strong feeling of sympathy for the Colonies, and one of opposition to the Government. When the outcome of the war was decided the later cartoons expressed less sympathy and considerable resentment over what may have been a wholly unexpected ending.

During the year, through the generosity of George Dudley Seymour who is a Vice President of the Society, the portraits of Col. Nathan Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. William Ellery and Jane Ellery were restored.

It has been a pleasure to grant a request for the loan of a number of works by Thomas Hooker for exhibition in the Widener Library in connection with their tercentenary celebration of the founding of Cambridge, Massachusetts and the arrival of Hooker.

February 13th, Miss May Atherton Leach of Philadelphia was appointed a delegate from this Society to the meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Miss Leach has graciously served in this capacity on frequent occasions in the past.

Miss Lucy Olcott Mather of Hartford, who died on December 5, 1932, left the following legacy to the Society in her will:

> "Third: I give to the Connecticut Historical Society, of "Hartford, Connecticut, the sum of Five Thousand Dol- "lars ($5,000), to be known as the 'Horace E. Mather "Fund', the principal to be safely invested and the in- "come to be used at the discretion of said Society for the "purchase of: 1. Genealogies of families settled in Amer- "ica before the year 1700, including English works bear- "ing on such families. 2. Printed parish Registers of "England. 3. Church and Town records of New England. "If at any time there should be no further occasion for "such purchases, then the income may be used for the "general purposes of said Society."

The amount of this legacy was received from the executor of the estate on December 16, 1933. This gift fills a real need as it will enable the Society to add further to its already excellent collection of English and early American genealogical material.

During the past year there have been few developments in connection with the plan of erecting a suitable building for the Society on Washington Street. We will be obliged to patiently wait until such time when improved business conditions bring about a materially increased value of the securities in the George Edward Hoadley Fund.

In the past, two of the houses on Washington Street which were purchased by the building fund were torn down, and it is now proposed to demolish two of the three which still remain on the tract. The reason for this is that these houses are old and so badly out of repair that their maintenance has resulted in an annual loss, and also the fact that we have been faced with the possibility of very heavy extraordinary repairs on them at any moment.

When the new building for the Society is erected, sufficient endowment will be necessary for its operation and maintenance. The chief need of the Society at the present time is endowment, the income from which can be used for general purposes. It is hoped that, as time progresses, there may be those so minded to assist us to this end.

EDGAR F. WATERMAN,
President.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

One of the most important pieces of work done during the year is the arranging and classifying of the manuscripts in our south vault. This vault, like all the rest of the space we occupy, is much crowded. However, with these manuscripts arranged and each separate lot or particularly important item listed in our card catalogue of manuscripts, they are now quickly available. The names of the writers of letters in each of the 50 volumes of our manuscript Oliver Wolcott (Jr.) correspondence have also been entered in our card catalogue of manuscripts. This makes it comparatively easy to locate any of the items in these volumes, although the letters are not individually listed or catalogued.

Our readers during the year numbered 4186. During four of the months the attendance was above 400 and one month it reached 451. A person is counted but once in a day, although he may come into the library two or three times. This total is figured only to the end of April, 1934, when the Society's business year ends, and not, as has been done on previous years, to the day of the annual meeting; so that this total is for a year of about eleven months. Even so, the total is more than seven per cent above that of the previous twelve month year.

The printed material added to the library during the year consists of 416 volumes, 655 pamphlets and 300 miscellaneous, a total of 1371 items, received by gift. By purchase we acquired 115 volumes, 246 pamphlets and 3 miscellaneous, a total of 392 items, and a grand total of 1763 pieces. Among the purchases are 12 volumes and one pamphlet credited to the Brainard, 10 volumes and two broadsides to the Hoadly and five volumes to the Morris fund. One manuscript was purchased from income of the Peck fund and one lot of manuscripts from income of the Chapman fund.

The Society recently issued a pamphlet with the title "Diary of the Reverend Noadiah Russell of Ipswich, Mass. and Middletown, Conn. for the old style year 1687." This which, with a single exception, is perhaps the earliest Connecticut diary extant, is of particular interest because it gives an account of the coming of Andros to Hartford on October 31st and of his taking over the government of Connecticut on the following day. This diary and the "Annual Report" for 1933 are the only publications of the society during the year. The supplementary list of our paintings annexed to that report has proved useful besides preserving in permanent form the data relating to them.

The manuscripts received during the year are so numerous and varied that no attempt is made in this report to give a complete list of them or to identify their individual donors. The names of their donors have been included in italic type in the list of donors appearing at the end of this pamphlet. Only the more important manuscripts are here mentioned. The extensive collection left by the late Mrs. Edna Minor Rogers of Norwich was secured by contributions received from Annie B. Jennings, Arthur Adams, George B. Alvord, Frederic S. Bliss, Morgan B. Brainard, Florence S. M. Crofut, George S. Palmer, Winchell Smith, Mabel C. Tuller, George C. F. Williams, Albert C. Bates, Alfred L. Holman, Mrs. Carolyn D. Conning, Helen D. Love. It includes copies of records and data relating to Norwich and to other towns in the vicinity of Norwich, genealogical correspondence and data upon about 300 different family names with scattering notes on many other names, a number of family records from old Bibles, manuscript material and newspaper clippings on sundry subjects such as Indians, Revolution and War of 1812, Connecticut Loyalists, the Battle of Groton, old houses, ships and ship building, early silver and silver-smiths, clocks and clock makers, old trails and roads. These Rogers manuscripts and papers have been listed for reference in a separate book, as had previously been done with the Camp, Gay and Jacobus manuscripts.

The sudden death of Alice M. Gay, an officer and life member of the society and for more than a quarter of a century a part time assistant and substitute in the library, was a shock to all who knew her. From her cousin, Lillian O. Gay, to whom her personal effects were left, we received by gift and purchase Miss Gay's collection of copies of records, inscriptions and other historical material, her genealogical data and correspondence and her extensive collection of records from family Bibles, numbering 345 originals or copies.

Mrs. Sylvester B. Butler of Groton has added valuable material to her former gifts of copies and abstracts from the early records of New London and Groton.

The extensive genealogy of the Meacham family, filling 30 typewriter paper boxes, which was compiled by our late member, Mrs. Idah Meacham Strobridge of Los Angeles, Calif., has been presented to us by her representatives.

Mrs. Charles F. Sumner of Bolton has presented Sumner family correspondence consisting of several hundred letters dating from about 1810.

From the late Joseph O. Goodwin, the historian of East Hartford, we received through the courtesy of his daughter, Mrs. Harold A. Preston, a valuable collection of manuscripts relating chiefly to East Hartford history and to persons and families of that town.

Manuscript data on the following families in addition to the Rogers papers, has been received. Barnes, Birch-Burch-Birge, Blackman, Bowe, Brewer, Brooks, Brown, Bryant, Case, Chase, Clark, Cone, Daniels, Dresser, Dudley-Leavitt, Eldridge, Grant, Gridley, Hall, Hazard, Horton, House, Judd, Lay, Meacham, Newell, Northam, Perkins, Pitkin, Post, Powell, Prout, Rogers, Shelton, Sherwood, Smalley, Stevens, Tinker, Thornton, Tracy, Williams, Wilton, Wood, Youngs.

Copies of church or town records of the following towns were acquired: Andover, Barkhamsted, Cooperstown, N. Y., East Hartford, Glastonbury, Groton, Hartford, West Hartland, Lenox, Mass., Montville, New London, Preston, Spencertown, N. Y., Stockbridge, Mass.

We have also added copies of inscriptions from cemeteries in the towns of Andover, Barkhamsted, Bloomfield, Bozrah, Canterbury, Colchester, East Lyme, East Providence, R. I., Eastford, Franklin, Granby, Griswold, Groton, Hamden, Lisbon, North Stonington, Norwich, Plainfield, Preston, Simsbury, Sprague, Suffield, Voluntown, West Hartford, Wolcott.

In addition to the collection of 345 family records from old Bibles received among Alice M. Gay's papers, we have acquired Bible records of the following families: Arnold, Atkinson, Baker, Barrows, Bellows, Blaisdell, Bolton, Burrill, Carder, Chapman, Childs, Church, Clark, Clegg, Comins, Crowell, Dinehart, Dudley, Gardner, Gordon, Hallett, Hammond, Hart, Hathaway, Hawkins, Howe, Hulbert, Lewis, Lyman, Payne, Prime, Prince, Ray, Remington, Riley, Robbins, Severn, Shaw, Stanton, Taber, Taylor, Upson, White, Woodworth.

Other manuscripts of general interest include the following:

Letters of Rev. William Gibbs and Elizabeth Gibbs (copies).

Through the efforts of Miss Florence S. M. Crofut, President of the Connecticut Chapter of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, a portion of the fund voted by the National Society for the preservation of early records in the various states, was used for the restoration of the Matthew Grant record of Windsor which covers the first half century of the town and which has long been in the possession of this Society and of the church record kept by Rev. Stephen Mix of Wethersfield, 1694-1738, now on deposit with the Society.

This work was done in a most expert manner by the Emory Record Preserving Company of Taunton, Mass. These ancient documents are now in a condition which will apparently preserve them for centuries to come.

In November and December an exhibit of profiles or silhouettes, which attracted considerable attention, was written up in the Hartford papers and noted in the associated press reports, was made in our rooms. The exhibit was opened on the occasion of a meeting of the Hartford Librarians Club, at which time Miss Kidder, who had done the work of arranging and cataloguing the silhouettes, read a paper upon them. Friends were very kind in loaning their treasures and almost 150 silhouettes were shown, including examples of the work of most of the famous cutters. Among the 27 cut by William H. Brown were 16 full length figures of Hartford worthies of a century ago, which Mr. Brown presented to the society. Other cutters represented included William Bache, William M. S. Doyle, August Edouart, "Master Hankes," Miss M. A. Honeywell, who held the scissors with her mouth, being without hands, William J. Hubard, William King, R. Letton, Charles William Peale and probably Rev. Joseph Steward the proprietor of the old Hartford Museum.

The printed genealogies added to our collection are of the families of Atterbury, Bartlett, Benjamin, Bingham, Blanchard, Blodgett, Bosworth, Brown, Bruce and others, Bulkeley, Butler, Caldwell, Clarke, Cody, Culver, Drake, Eddy, Fox, Gardner, Gear, Gibbs, Hungerford, Lawrence, Lee, Luckey, Lyman, Miner and others, Nash, Pepper, Rees, Rogers, Roosevelt, Ruff and others, Seamans, Skilton, Smith (2), Spencer, Stiles, Westcott.

Among books of Connecticut interest added to the library are "Connecticut's Naval office at New London" by Ernest E. Rogers; "Captain Gideon Olmsted" by Louis F. Middlebrook; "Our Earliest Colonial Settlements" by Charles M. Andrews; "Connecticut Trilogy" by Marguerite Allis; "Ancient Windsor" by Daniel Howard; a broadside giving list of objects to be seen in the Hartford Museum about 1800; three pamphlets on Guilford by Rev. Charles L. Biggs; a volume on Samson Occom, published by Dartmouth College, a fourth volume of the Susquehannah papers edited by Julian S. Boyd for which this Society furnished much material; a list of books for sale by Cooke and Hale of Hartford in 1818; nineteen pamphlets issued by the Connecticut Tercentenary Commission; the fifth volume of Clarence W. Bowen's "History of Woodstock"; a bibliography of the publications of Thomas Collier of Litchfield by Samuel H. Fisher; "History of Green's Farms" by George P. Jennings; continuations of his American Genealogist and his Old Fairfield Families by Donald Lines Jacobus; broadside addresses for the Connecticut Courant carriers for 1795, written by Dr. Lemuel Hopkins and for 1799 entitled "The Guillotina," a continuation of the same title for the previous year.

William B. Goodwin presented us with 65 volumes of the publications of the Yorkshire Parish Register Society, a very valuable series; also with "The Life of Catharina, wife of William Boevey," a somewhat remarkable English woman.

The following interesting publications relating to antiques and their collection have been secured—"Early American Prints" by Dreppard; "Early American Silver" by Avery; "Early American Textiles" by Little; "Early American Paintings" by Sherman; Sandwich glass by Chipman; Five Colonial Artists by Bayley; "Old Silver" by Jones; "Samplers" by Ashton; a complete file of the magazine "Antiques;" a partial file of the magazine "The Antiquarian;" a volume on old pewter, brass, copper and Sheffield plate by Moore and the continuation of the magazine "Old-time New England." From the Library of Congress we received the third and final volume of the Records of the Virginia Company. From Crompton Johnson the three beautiful volumes on Christopher Columbus by John Boyd Thatcher. From Mrs. J. Coolidge Hills a quantity of miscellaneous pamphlets and broadsides; from the late Joseph O. Goodwin of East Hartford numerous books, pamphlets and broadsides; from Victor H. Palsits, the editor, the Journal of Robert Rogers.

Other additions worthy of note include Lewis Einstein's "Divided Loyalties;" the Huntington Library Bulletin; the magazine "Americana" from its publishers; The Elm Leaf, an East Hartford newspaper, covering two years; publications of the Florida Historical Society and the States Historical Society; several historical volumes and several years of early newspapers from the Wadsworth Atheneum; Ames Almanac, published in Boston for 1730 and 1772, leaving only 4 issues necessary to complete our file of this Almanac.

Our unexcelled collection of eighteenth century Connecticut imprints has been increased by the addition of issues printed in 1767, 1787, 1793, 1794, 1797, 1799 and in addition to these books and pamphlets, we have secured several broadsides of that period.

Just too late for mention in the previous annual report we received a picture of Sarah (Jessup) (Wakeman) Banks, born July 14, 1726, died 1805, daughter of Edward and Sarah (Blackleach) Jessup of Green's Farms, Conn., and successively the widow of Stephen Wakeman and Capt. David Banks. This fine portrait of a woman somewhat past middle age was painted and signed by Ralph Earl and dated 1788. It is the gift of Mrs. Lena Cadwalader Evans of New York City.

Our Vice President from New Haven County, George Dudley Seymour, Esq., has continued his interest in the restoration of some of the Society's early paintings and during the year has had the portraits of Col. Nathan Whiting, Mr. and Mrs. William Ellery and Jane Ellery reconditioned. The improvement in these and in the three which he had previously had reconditioned, is very marked and it would be most pleasing if some other friend of the Society would undertake to have others of our early portraits reconditioned.

Mr. Seymour has also given us two framed photographs much enlarged from miniatures painted by John Trumbull and now at the Yale School of Fine Arts, of Thomas Youngs Seymour, born 1757, died 1811, and of his sister, Mary Juliana Williams, a famous beauty of her time, children of Hon. Thomas and Mary (Ledyard) Seymour of Hartford. In this connection mention should be made of a handsome and charmingly written volume written and published by Mr. Seymour entitled, "Capt. Nathan Hale, Major John Palsgrave Wyllys; a digressive history."

Mrs. Lena Cadwalader Evans of Paris gave the Society a silver snuff box formerly the property of Aaron Burr.

From Mrs. William B. Schober of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., we received a semi-circular table with white cover carrying candlewick pattern of a horn of plenty and a spray of flowers with a drape to go beneath the cover; also a quilt made at Shuttle Meadow, New Britain, in 1820.

From the late Silas Cornwall of Hartford in memory of his wife, Ida Evelyn (Bissell) Cornwall, we received a beautiful picture representing the parting of Hector and Andromache embroidered and painted on silk by "M. Bissell 1810." We also received a small half-round Hepplewhite table handsomely inlaid with designs and narrow lines of a lighter wood, and a large Empire style mirror in a heavy gilt frame.

Miss Alice Welles of New York City has added to her previous gifts by presenting paintings of Mrs. Mary Jane (Goodwin), born 1818, died 1889, of Hartford wife of Charles Haskell Brainard, and Roxanna (Bulkley) Goodwin, painted in 1875 by Charles Noel Flagg; also portrait of Mary Brainard Clark, daughter of Charles Haskell and Mary Jane Brainard of Hartford, born 1839, married 1869 Edmund Sanford Clark of Boston, died in New York in 1918; painted by George F. Wright; also portrait of Katherine Louise Brainard, sister of Mary (Brainard) Clark, born in 1856, married Rev. Henry Evan Cotton in 1888, died in 1918; painted when she was a child of perhaps eight years; also a second portrait, full length, of Katherine Louise (Brainard) Cotton, painted by George F. Wright.

Miss Welles also presented us with a handsome gold watch formerly belonging to her grandfather, Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy. This watch, no doubt a presentation piece to Secretary Welles, strikes the hour, quarter and minute when desired and has the case delicately engraved on one side with the Welles arms and a wreath of laurel and oak leaves and on the other with an anchor attached to a chain.

Hon. Newton C. Brainard has made additions to the collection of photographs of Connecticut churches which he has made for and presented to the Society.

From the late Fanny L. Davis of Hartford we received a bequest of four handsome musical instruments made by her father, Eli Lennox, partly from wood of the Charter Oak.

The Misses Mary F. and Catherine L. Lord of Hartford have given us a number of interesting household articles, among which are a large and a small brass kettle and a copper tea kettle which now ornament our library room.

A framed crayon portrait of Edward Hopkins, a Hartford publisher who later removed from the city and died in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1864, was received from Miss Katherine L. Peck of Waterbury.

In anticipation we are still looking forward to the time when a fine, new building shall have been erected for the Society, and when my successor will have the labor and pleasure of installing and arranging our treasures in their new location.

Respectfully,

Albert C. Bates,

Librarian.
